The War Today

Greece appeared today to be well-launched on a campaign to liberate Albania from Italian tyrannical rule, but a suggestion came from Berlin that Greek and British forces might soon have to meet German assistance to the inept Italians.

Germany pulled little Slovakia, remnant of Czechoslovakia, into the so-called Axis over the weekend; but Bulgaria apparently was balky.

Bulgaria's forced entry into the alliance for the "new order" had been expected ever since Greece started giving Italy a thrashing, for Bulgaria is the best highway German troops could use to help their hard-pressed Italian friends.

Jugoslavia unofficially warned Bulgarian revisionists that they would be well-advised not to seek any Yugoslav territory, while Turkey appeared to be virtually on a war footing.

Turkey had indicated previously that she would get into the war if Bulgaria should make a move against Greece. It has not been made clear, however, whether Bulgarian permission for German troops to march against Greece would be considered a military act by Bulgaria, provided her own troops did not march with the Germans.

FROM WITHIN

It is less than two years since Italy's troops bombarded Durazzo and went ashore to force King Zog, Queen Geraldine and their newly-born son to flee Albania, and there is not much doubt that the fierce Albanians have been biding their time. When the whole story is known it probably will be disclosed that Albanian sabotage was a sizeable factor in the Italian rout.

Disclosure that British non-combatant troops have been landed in Greece to help the Royal Air Force once again placed British ground troops on European soil, presumably for the first time since they were forced to withdraw in the heroic retreat to Dunkerque and the evacuation through that port.

WHEN READY

It was said they were "specialists," presumably meaning they were technical men such as aircraft riggers, instrument repairmen, engine mechanics, engineers and the like.

There was no indication when British land combat troops would be landed in Greece, but there was an indication that it could be just about when the British high command chose to send them.

Final Bulletins

Ready for Riom Trials

VICHY (AP)—Installation of telephone booths and telegraph wires near the Supreme Court building at Riom indicated today that the war-guilt trials of former Premier Leon Blum, Edouard Daladier and Paul Reynaud and Gen. Marie-Gustave Gamelin might open soon.

Bazaar for Children

NEW YORK (CP)—A Christmas bazaar at which thousands of dollars' worth of toys, books, games and other gifts for children will be sold, will open December 2, the British-American Ambulance Corps announced this afternoon. The articles to be sold have been donated to the corps by United States manufacturers and publishers, and the proceeds of the sales will go toward the aid of bomb-harassed boys and girls in Great Britain.

Congratulations

LONDON (CP)—Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander-in-chief of the British forces in the Middle East, has cabled a message of congratulations to Gen. Papagos, commander-in-chief of the Greek forces, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported this evening.

St. Leonard's Church, London, Destroyed

LONDON (CP)—St. Leonard's Church, one of London's oldest and a favorite place of worship of Dr. Samuel Johnson, has been virtually destroyed in recent air raids, it was disclosed today. The Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security issued this communique late this afternoon: "Since dawn this morning several enemy bombers, operating singly or in small formations, have crossed the southeast and south coasts of England and one small formation reached the outskirts of the London area. "One enemy bomber was shot down into the sea off Dover this morning."

Winning With Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Marquis of Lothian, British Ambassador to the United States, said this afternoon following a White House visit that he had given President Roosevelt a picture of the situation in Great Britain that was "optimistic if we get some help from you." He added, however, that "the President and I never mentioned finance at all."

Cancel Holidays

LONDON (CP)—The treasury this evening announced cancellation of the usual bank holidays on Christmas Day in Scotland and on Boxing Day, the day after Christmas, in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

Gets 15 Years

MANILA (AP)—Capt. Rufino Romero of the Philippine Scouts was convicted by a general court-martial today of conspiring to sell military information and was sentenced to serve 15 years at hard labor in a military prison.

Commissioner

VICHY (AP)—Jean Chlappe, a member of the Paris municipal council, was appointed today to succeed Gabriel Puux as high commissioner of French Mandated Syria. (It was as Paris chief of police and head of the Surete Nationale—secret police—that Chlappe gained the most fame.)

CANADA CURBS FRUIT IMPORTS

OTTAWA (CP)—To conserve foreign exchange, the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association publishes a list of fruits and vegetables, with the request that licensed importers refrain from importing these commodities, following a conference with Finance Minister Isley.

Fruits—Apples, apricots, avocados, casabas, cherries, fresh dates, fresh figs, guavas, honeyballs, honeydews, limes, loganberries, mangoes, nectarines, passion fruit, peaches, pears, pineapples, plums, pomegranates, fresh prunes, quinces, raspberries, strawberries and watermelons. Vegetables—Artichokes, asparagus, beets, cabbage, carrots, celery, chikory, Chinese lettuce, cucumbers, egg plant, endive, leeks, mushrooms, okra, onions, oyster plant, parsley, parsnips, peas, peppers, potatoes, radishes, rhubarb, shallots, Swiss chard, truffles, turnips, watercress, without.

Italian Rout Grows Fleet Abandoning Taranto

LONDON (CP)—The capture of 8,000 more Italian troops by the Greeks was announced in Athens today, according to a dispatch from the Greek capital to Exchange Telegraph news agency this evening.

Greek Troops At Argirocastro

ATHENS (AP)—Dispatches from the front today said Greek advance units had entered the outskirts of Argirocastro, main Italian military base in southern Albania, and that the town was expected to fall before evening. Heavy fighting also was reported southwest of Argirocastro, where the Greeks were threatening to push to the Adriatic coast, isolating a large number of Italians.

These thrusts were part of a counter-drive against the thwarted Italian invasion, which was described by military sources as a "full fledged offensive" intended to wrest Albania from Italian control and possibly keyed to a plan for Greek British seizure of Italy's strategic Dodecanese Islands.

While the drive on Argirocastro continued, additional Greek columns to the east threatened Premeti.

Cavalry Unable To Catch Italians

In the central sector, the Italians were reported to have abandoned their fortified positions on Mount Ostrovitz. Another Italian retreat continued in the Pogradetz area, north of the surrendered town of Koritza, where even Greek cavalry was unable to engage the main body of the fleeing Italians.

Greek spokesmen said that without even reaching the Italians' second line of Albanian defenses Greek troops over the weekend.

British noncombatant troops—number undisclosed—were reported authoritatively last night to have been ferried across the Mediterranean by files of transports and landed at Greek ports.

WHERE ITALIAN FORCES ARE PURSUED—This map indicates the extent of the Greek gains since they started driving the Italians off their soil. At Durazzo R.A.F. planes bombed a 10,000-ton and a smaller Italian ship at the weekend. From Taranto, the Italians have withdrawn most of their fleet since the big British raid November 11.

Asks Reason for Beard's Removal

Harold Winch, C.C.F. leader in the Legislature, demanded this afternoon to know what was behind the "beaching" of Commander Charles T. Beard, who commanded H.M.C.S. Prince Robert when she captured the German freighter Weser.

"The people are entitled to know why Commander Beard was pulled off the Prince Robert." He said that while Rear-Admiral Nelles and Navy Minister Macdonald told a gathering in Victoria that an old ailment necessitated Commander Beard's retirement, a thorough check-up in hospital showed he was 100 per cent physically fit.

Mr. Winch referred to the matter when he was discussing recent naval mishaps and said many fathers and mothers in British Columbia wondered why so many senior naval officers were ashore while mere youths were second in command of Canadian warships.

1. Seized heights commanding strategic Argirocastro, the Italians' principal south Albanian base, 19 miles from the Greek frontier. (A Reuter's news agency dispatch from Belgrade said the Greeks had fought their way into the outskirts of Argirocastro.)

2. Captured Konispoli, in extreme southern Albania, in a supporting drive to push the Italians back toward Porto Edda (Santi Quaranta) on the Strait of Otranto opposite Italy.

Over 15 Miles From Boundary

3. Reached Frasher, more than 15 miles inside Albania in the central Pindus Mountain sector.

4. Occupied Machopolis, 11 miles west of captured Koritza, and reached Pogradetz, guardian of the highway to the Albanian capital, Tirana, in the northern sector.

The push to Pogradetz, 25 miles north of Koritza and slightly more than 30 miles inside Albania, was the Greeks' deepest penetration of the Italian defence to be reported.

A Greek spokesman said stiffening Italian resistance along some of the Fascist routes of retreat indicated a "tendency" to establish a second defence line, but added the Greek pursuit had not been stopped.

The high command reported "our air force bombed three enemy columns in retreat with great success" and dispatches from Ohrid, on the Albanian-Yugoslav border said British planes and Greek artillery pounded retreating forces yesterday.

British noncombatant troops—number undisclosed—were reported authoritatively last night to have been ferried across the Mediterranean by files of transports and landed at Greek ports.

FOR FLIGHT—Italian army engineers hastily replace a bridge which, according to Italian censor, Greeks destroyed. It helped the Italians retreat faster.

where cheering, flag-waving Greeks welcomed them.

The British—many of them veterans of the last stand in Flanders and the retreat through Dunkerque—were specialists in equipment, transportation and supplies.

Troops Prepare To Take Dodecanese

Reports said considerable forces of British and Greek troops were massed in an "expeditionary" army on the Greek island of Crete, awaiting the "zero hour" for a direct assault on the strongly fortified Dodecanese Islands.

The high command communique said today that 1,500 prisoners were captured and quantities of guns seized in mopping up operations around Koritza.

Greek newspaper dispatches from the Koritza front said the Greeks found 10 Italian airplanes burned at the Koritza airport, but that large quantities of food, munitions, tanks and guns were found in good condition.

These dispatches said stores the Italians left behind included quantities of martial law declarations printed in Italian and Greek—and surmised these had been intended for use in Greek towns the Italians thought they would capture.

Prisoners, Buses Taken By Greeks

SALONICA (AP)—Greek troops continued their advance in three sectors of Albania today and reported the capture of more Italian prisoners.

One Greek column, advancing rapidly from Koritza, Albanian city, captured last week from the Italians, reported taking several hundred Italian prisoners at Pogradetz and 200 buses and other equipment.

Hospitals in Salonika are less than half full, indicating, observers said, that the Italians are not fighting pitched battles, but are retreating steadily and engaging only in rear-guard actions.

Italians Tell Of Counter-attacks

ROME (AP)—The Italian high command said in a communique today:

"On the Greek front, effective counter-attacks were made by our forces. Our air force carried out bombings of enemy positions, particularly along the Epirus coast.

"Enemy aircraft carried out a raid on Durazzo, wounding several and causing light damage. An enemy plane was shot down."

Warships Flee To Secret Port

LONDON (CP)—British naval sources today said the Royal Navy's bombing of the Italian fleet in the harbor of Taranto forced the Italian navy to withdraw the major portion of its fleet from the badly damaged port to an undisclosed place of greater safety.

The Italian fleet movement was disclosed by photographs released for publication today. They were taken by British scouting planes which made daylight flights as low as 6,000 feet above the fortified port.

Naval sources said the total strength in the whole of Taranto harbor, at the inside of the heel of the Italian boot, at the time of the first attack, November 11, was six battleships, 10 cruisers, 27 destroyers and a large number of submarines.

After the attack the Italians withdrew all ships except three battleships, all damaged, eight cruisers and nine destroyers.

The four photographs made public today were taken on a second scouting flight November 14, three days after the attack, and after a preliminary reconnaissance flight.

Salvage Crews Work at Littorio

One photograph, according to British naval experts, shows a battleship of the Littorio class—probably the 25,000-ton Littorio Veneto—badly down by the bows in the middle of outer Taranto harbor. Salvage ships and tugs are shown alongside and evidences of oil appear on the water, they said.

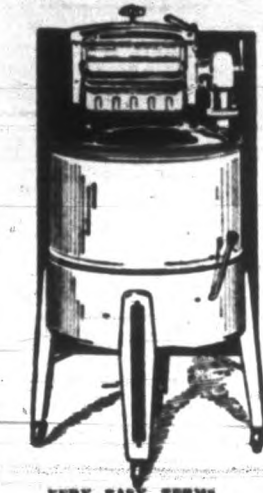

Another photograph shows a 23,622-ton battleship of the Cavour class beached on the east shore of the outer harbor. The pictures show the ship with heavy list to starboard and the whole length of its starboard side submerged as well as its stern, aft of the rear gun turrets.

There were no signs of activity about her.

WRECK ANOTHER FAMOUS MASTERPIECE—Another ancient church was added to the growing list of English architectural masterpieces destroyed by Nazis when famous St. James Church, in London's Piccadilly, was smashed in recent raids. In photo above, firemen are seen working amid the smouldering ruins. (Cablephoto).

PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO JUDGE LAMPMAN

Representatives of the bench and bar, as well as prominent figures in civic life and a host of personal friends, joined in a last tribute to Judge Peter Second Lampman at the funeral held on Saturday afternoon.

Rev. Frederic Pike conducted the simple but impressive service in the little church of St. Luke's, Cedar Hill, which was filled. A guard of honor of the British Columbia Police was formed outside the church when the cortege arrived from Hayward's B.C.
Funeral Chapel at 2:30, those composing the guard being Inspectors Robert Owens, Sergt. P.
Kelsberg, W. Murray, D. Shand and L. Begallie.

During the service the Twenty-third Psalm and the hymns "There is a Blessed Home" and "The Radiant Morn Hath Passed Away."
The chief mourners at the service included Judge Lampman's son, Thomas E. Lampman, who traveled from San Francisco for the funeral. Pallbearers were:
Hon. G. H. Barnard, Judge H. H.
Shandley, D. J. Angus, David

PIONEER DIES AT SALT SPRING ISLAND

Mrs. Elizabeth McLennan, who came to Victoria as a child of five 76 years ago, died last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs.
Margaret Lee, Fulford Harbor.
She had been a resident of Salt
Spring for 60 years.

Mrs. McLennan was born in Kingston, Ontario, and came with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs.
James Dunn, to Victoria in 1864.
She attended the old Craigflower School and is believed to be one of the last surviving pupils of that pioneer establishment.

She was the widow of Alexander McLennan, and is survived by three sons and four daughters:
A. E. McLennan at Bend, Oregon;
D. S. at Round Bay, B.C., and R. M.
of this city; Mrs. M. Lee, Fulford;
Mrs. A. Stewart and Mrs. A.
Williams, Vancouver, and Mrs. E.
J. McLennan, Portland, Ore. The remains are at Sands Mortuary, pending funeral arrangements.

French Coast Set Alight

Hamburg Shipyard Blasted

A SOUTHEAST COAST TOWN, England (CP) — British bombers set the French coast alight from Boulogne to Cap Gris Nez tonight while Nazi long-range guns shook the British shore with an intense barrage.

Observers also believed the German gunners were attempting to hit a British shipping convoy which passed down the English Channel just before dusk.

TONS DROPPED
LONDON (CP) — British heavy bombers unloading "many tons" of explosives and nearly 2,000 fire bombs made a "concentrated" attack Sunday night on Hamburg shipyards which build German vessels, the Air Ministry reported this evening.

Capping a week-end of blows at the Axis by raiding the German port, several British pilots dropped their bombs at the same moment over the important

Blohm and Voss Shipyards, the Air Ministry news service said, and "afterwards they observed a good number of fires and explosions."

RETURNED TO ATTACK

A second attack was made on "the vast acreage" of shipyards early today and bomb-bursts were seen on the target, the Air Ministry bulletin said.

The reason for "so many raids on this one objective," the ministry said, was that "no one raid could destroy more than a part of the shipyards and it is certain the Germans will have been making every effort to repair the widespread damage we know has already been done."

The bulletin said the Germans had been building "an enormous" graving dock in the yards in recent years, and it added that "if the R.A.F. had allowed, it would have been ready this year."

Germans Say Bristol Heavily Bombed

West England City Fights Fires

LONDON (CP) — A western town bore the brunt of last night's German air attack, with bombers, flying singly, arriving one after another "almost continuously" for several hours, it was announced today. London was reported to have had one of the quietest week-ends since the air war began.

Buildings Damaged
By Explosions

(The Germans claimed Bristol was the town heavily bombed.)
The first of the invaders dropped "scores of incendiaries," causing fires which served as guides for succeeding planes with high explosives, said the communiqué.

"Large numbers" of parachute flares also were dropped. Fires illuminated the entire town and two of its largest stores were set ablaze.

An intensive anti-aircraft bat-

Lothian and Hull Talk

The communiqué, a joint one from the Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security, stated:
"The enemy's main attack during the night was made in the west of England. It began soon after dark and continued until shortly before midnight." High explosive and many incendiary bombs were dropped and houses and commercial buildings were damaged by fire and blast. Some persons were killed and others injured.
"Bombs were also dropped during the early part of the night at points in London and the Home Counties. At many of these points houses were damaged and at some of them casualties were caused, but the casualties as a whole were few, though a small number of persons were killed.

"Two enemy bombers were destroyed during the night. Three enemy aircraft, two bombers and one fighter were destroyed during daylight yesterday."

Nazi Raider Claims
95,000 Tons Sunk

BERLIN (AP) — The German high command issued the following communiqué Monday:
"One of the warships operating in overseas waters reported sinking 95,000 tons of enemy shipping space as a total result of her activity up to date.

The air force's retaliatory attacks against London continued on the night of November 23-24.
Battersea, Southwark and other sections of the city were targets of successful bombings.

"Furthermore, numerous German combat squadrons, as previously reported, bombed Southampton with all calibres in ceaseless attacks. Tremendous fires flared in the harbor and industrial plants which were visible far into France. Several war-vital objectives on the English west and south coasts were successfully bombed. Mining of the British coast continued.

"During the day German planes in the course of armed reconnaissance, bombed London and several localities of the Channel coast."

$40,495,000 Daily

GLASGOW (CP) — Describing this as the most costly war the world ever has known, Sir Kingley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, today said Britain's average daily war expenditures had risen from £5,300,000 ($23-585,000) for the first year to £9,100,000 ($40,495,000) for the first 77 days of the second year.

Sir Kingsley, speaking at the opening of war weapons week in Glasgow, said the rise in expenditures was a cause for gratification "provided always that the increase means output and not merely senseless increases in prices or wages or wasteful use of resources."

De Gaulle in London
After Africa Tour

LONDON (CP) — Gen. Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Free French forces, was disclosed today to have returned to London after a journey to equatorial Africa to rally France's American possessions to his standard.

On his return he conferred with Prime Minister Churchill for 45 minutes. Presumably he reported on conditions in the French African colonies.

J. M. ANDREWS
ULSTER PREMIER

BELFAST (CP) — John Miller Andrews today was elevated from the post of deputy prime minister of Northern Ireland to be Prime Minister, succeeding Viscount Craigavon, who died unexpectedly last night.

Mr. Andrews is 69 years old. He has been Finance Minister since 1937 and was Labor Minister from 1921 to 1937. He has been a member of the Northern Ireland parliament since its establishment in 1921.

Lord Craigavon was an uncon-promising foe of proposals for union of Eire and Ulster and his death occurred as various rumors circulated on a proposal for a united Ireland in return for leasing Irish naval bases to Britain.

Mr. Andrews also has opposed union proposals and although no suggestion has yet been made that Lord Craigavon's death would alter the situation, some observers thought there might be a remote possibility of a stronger move for unification.

Pope Pleads for End of War

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII, in an impassioned prayer for "peace in our days," pleaded anew yesterday for an end to "the whirlwinds of war that in the light of day or in the dark of night scatter terror, fire, destruction and slaughter on humble folk."

The pontiff, vigorous of voice, broadcast his 20-minute homily from the basilica of St. Peter's, where he had just concluded a special mass for the war dead.

He called for a new Golden Rule of war, urging that combatants, under no circumstances,
"do to others that which they would not have done to themselves or their country," and to fight the war as humanely as possible.

CHRIST'S ANSWER

For the text of his homily the Pope referred to Christ's answer to the apostles as to what would be the sign of the world's end, concluding:

"You shall hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that you not be troubled. For these things must come to pass, but the end indeed is not yet come."

"We must not be troubled... in the preaching of the gospel," he said. "But nonetheless the present hour is a phase in the solemn story of humanity predicted by Christ."

The pontiff blamed the "con-tentional aspirations" for raw materials as responsible for the war, saying oil and minerals in the earth "disturb the aims of man and upset his peace."

NEW FEROCITY

Today's conflict, he said, "instead of subsiding, goes on to gather new ferocity," so that the "din of war seems to overcome and drown our voice."

"Grant us, oh Lord," he prayed, "peace in our days."
"May justice and charity on one side and on the other be in perfect balance, so that all injustice be repaired, the reign of right restored, all rancor and discord be banished from men's minds, and may there arrive... true and well-ordered peace that will permanently reunite as brothers... all peoples of the human race."

No Move By Sofia at Least Till Spring

Bulgaria Not Signing Axis Pact

BERLIN (AP) — Informed sources made the surprising assertion today that the Hungarian, Rumanian and Slovak signatures to the three-power pact ended the present series of acquisitions to the Axis.

They said nothing was known as yet about Bulgarian leaders coming to Berlin.

This backing down came a short time after Germany had sounded her first warning to Greece since the Italian invasion in a statement in the semi-official Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, calling Greek Premier John Metaxas "a tool of the British policy of spreading war."

Bulgaria Outside
War for Winter

SOFIA (AP) — Belief that Bulgaria has won her struggle to avoid being rushed into signing the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo pact under the Greek-Turkish-Russian situation clarifies was expressed in official circles today.

Rejoicing over the "breathing spell" which the Axis has apparently granted was based on an official German statement that a delegation of Bulgarian statesmen was not expected in Berlin in the near future.

"It now appears certain to us that Bulgaria will not be involved in war this winter," a high government official declared.

A high source disclosed that War Minister Ivan Popoff, as late as Saturday, was making plans to go to Berlin early this week.

Soviet, Bulgaria
'On Sound Basis'

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, today printed addresses made in the Bulgarian parliament saying Bulgaria's relations with Soviet Russia "are now established on a sound political basis."

The newspaper printed a two-column dispatch from Sofia reporting demands made in parliament for settlement of Bulgaria's territorial claims on her Greek, Yugoslav and Rumanian neighbors.

The dispatch cited speeches in the debate, which started November 21, urging particularly that Bulgaria gain an outlet through Greece to the Aegean Sea.

Ulster Mourns
Craigavon
First Premier
BELFAST (CP) — As all Ulster today mourned the death of Viscount Craigavon, preparations were made for the funeral. The Prime Minister, who was a bitter opponent of proposals for union with Eire, collapsed and died last night in Glen Craig, his County Down home near here. His death was attributed to a heart ailment.
He was in his 70th year.

Lord Craigavon, who had been prime minister of Northern Ireland since the establishment of the Ulster government in 1921, worked right up to the end. He attended the last session of the Northern Ireland House of Commons Tuesday and was occupied even yesterday with government matters.

Uncompromising in his hostility to Eire, the "giant" of Ulster repeatedly proclaimed Northern Ireland's devotion to the Crown and retorted to Eire's demands for a united independent Ireland: "All that we want in the past and all that we want in the future is that the south should leave us alone."

Surviving him are the widow and two sons, one of whom, Mon.
James Craig, succeeds to the title.

To Viscount Craigavon of Stormont stands the credit of the longest term in a prime minister's office in the British Empire's history.

In 1921, when Irish passions were at white heat, this tall, granite-faced imperialist became head of the first government of Northern Ireland, semi-autonomous state of six counties within the United Kingdom. His prestige and popularity were high then and years of office and its inevitable crop of political enemies left them as high as ever.

Six feet two inches in height, Craigavon, created a viscount in 1927, was hailed as the personification of the Ulster Scot—solid, silent and shrewd.

SIDE BY SIDE
His niche in Irish history will be near that of his leader, the late Lord Carson, with whom he stood on the Ulster platform and proclaimed the Ulster policy.

James Craig was born January
8, 1871, the eighth son of James Craig, justice of the peace, of Craigavon, and his wife, nee Eleanor Gilmour Brown. They sent him to Merchiston to be educated and in his 29th year he first attracted public notice by answering the call of the South African War.

Years later, down in South Ireland, banners waved and torches blazed as the Irish Home Rule movement gathered strength, and when Edward Carson, the fiery Dublin barrister, came forward to challenge the opposition of loyalist Ulster, James Craig stepped to his side.

Carson made the speeches.
Craig worked away in the background forming the Ulster Volunteers, 100,000 strong, pledged to fight against "Home Rule and Rome Rule." Ulster's Protestant population rose behind them, spurred by Prime Minister Herbert Asquith's Home Rule proposals into determination to fight against "the bartering away of our liberties."

In church, chapel and meeting house throughout the province, the Ulster Covenant was signed September 28, 1912.

But when the Great War broke out Craig at once transferred his energies from the cause of the North to the major issue. He organized the famous 36th Ulster Division, whose gallant feats remain among the proudest records of the Allies.

During and after the war recognition came in Westminster.
Craig was made a baronet in 1918.

GOVERNMENT ACT Sick of the Irish problem and the "Black and Tan" troubles, Britain had enacted in 1920 the Government of Ireland Act, dividing Ireland into two parts, with separate parliaments in Dublin and Belfast.

Southern Ireland, waging guerrilla warfare "to maintain the republic proclaimed at the Easter Rising of 1916," spurned the offer of a parliament.

Northern Ireland, fearful of being swallowed up in some new whirlpool, accepted her Parliament with misgivings only when she was assured of her position as an integral part of the United Kingdom. She continued to return 13 members to the British

Planning Devices To Halt Night Raids

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secret devices to combat night bombing raids are being developed both in the United States and Great Britain, authorities said today.

The Marquess of Lothian, British ambassador just back from England, said Britain's technical experts are hard at work on a number of "hush hush" devices for destruction of nocturnal bombers. He added cryptically the problem would not be solved in the next two months.

The ambassador's mention of a specific time limit was interpreted in some quarters as indicating the question has become one of production rather than a search for the new weapon.

The United States army is silent regarding its devices for night bombing defence, but a high officer assured newsmen "we are not asleep."

Doukhobors Mourn Verigin's Widow

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Choirs are singing night and day before the bier of Anna Verigin, widow of Peter Verigin II. Burial will be carried out tomorrow.

Mrs. Verigin, whose husband was the leader of Canada's Doukhobors, died in a Vancouver hospital last week. To the open coffin in the Verigin house at Brilliant, B.C., have come members of the Russian religious sect from British Columbia and Alberta to mourn her.

Additional Doukhobors came from Saskatchewan today to take part in the funeral ceremonies and tomorrow the body of Mrs. Verigin will be carried to a tomb hewn from a rock on a nearby hillside, and placed with those of her husband and his father, Peter Verigin I.

R.A.F. Pounds Nazi 'Invasion Ports,' Berlin

LONDON (CP)—The Royal Air Force pounded Hitler's French invasion ports at the week-end in the bitterest bombardment of the war while the conviction grew in official circles that the Germans may make another attempt to land an expeditionary force in this country.

Tons of bombs were rained last night on Boulogne, Calais, Brest and Lorient, where it was known the Germans had recently gathered naval vessels and troop-carrying ships. It was group bombing—the most devastating form of aerial attack—and lasted for hours. The rumble of the bomb explosions could be heard on the Kent coast across the 22-mile width of the English Channel.

A report which circulated today that the Germans were planning to invade Eire and seize naval bases there was dismissed in official circles as "mere conjecture."

Wait Till Target Grows Large

Ever since mid-September, when Hitler's invasion plans were shattered by R.A.F. fighters, a constant watch has been kept by coastal command planes on German-occupied French ports.

It is understood these reconnaissance flights disclosed a steady trickle of German ships concentrating in French Channel ports. Apparently the high command held off the bombers until enough shipping was grouped together to guarantee success of the raids.

The most important German port, Hamburg, also was attacked by the R.A.F. during the night, with docks and oil refineries the chief objectives.

Airdrome Bombed At Christiansund

The Air Ministry issued this communique today: "Early on Sunday morning, aircraft of the coastal command made an attack on the airdrome of Christiansund (Norway). Other aircraft attacked the harbor of the Hook of Holland."

The Fleet Air Arm, operating with the coastal command, bombed the docks of Boulogne.

"Last night, aircraft of the bomber command again treated their attacks on shipping and industrial plants at Hamburg. Many fires and explosions followed the bombing."

"Other targets last night included the Altona Gas Works, the Wilhelmshaven Docks, a chemical factory at Harburg, the port of Boulogne, the Den Helder docks, anti-aircraft and searchlight positions and enemy airdromes and seaplane bases."

"One of our aircraft is missing."

Smash German and Italian Centres

The raids topped off widespread week-end bombing forays which included blows at the heart of Berlin and at Italian arsenals and motor plants at Turin.

Railway Yards In Berlin Raked

From Saturday's dusk to yesterday's dawn British bombers kept at it and returned home with accounts of blazing destruction left in such vital objectives as Berlin's Pultze and Lehrter freight yards, Essen's sprawling Krupp works and the Royal Italian arsenal and the Fiat works at Turin.

Other targets included Leipzig and Duisburg-Ruhrort in Germany, and Boulogne, Brest and Lorient in German-occupied France. All received incendiary and heavy demolition bombs and returning pilots said at least one huge fire was observed at each place.

Describing the Berlin raid, the Air Ministry news service said the attacking planes reached the German capital before 8 p.m. and started at least 10 big fires in the Pultze and the Lehrter freight yards.

"One of the fires burned so fiercely that aircraft flying high above were illuminated by the flames," it said.

Another formation bombed the rail yards between Berlin's Potsdam and Anhalter stations with 1,000 incendiaries and numerous explosives, it related. One pilot said one direct hit was scored on the Potsdam station, causing fires followed by three explosions.

Berlin Fires Light Up Sky

"The interior of my bomber was lit up as though we had an electric torch," said another pilot. "Visibility was good and we could see Unter den Linden and the Tiergarten easily."

"There was an uncanny silence when we came over Berlin. Then their Ack Acks (anti-aircraft) began firing and German fighters by this time were about."

"While one of our bombers was held in the searchlights two Messerschmitts attacked, firing red and green tracer bullets. The pilot turned his machine towards them to avoid their fire and the fighters broke away."

In the early evening raid on Essen, the Air Ministry related, fierce fires were started which were visible for 20 miles. One pilot reported one large fire and two smaller ones set off in the centre of the Krupp works there, while another said his bombs had caused a tremendous, 10-second explosion.

At Turin, fires were started by incendiaries which guided bomb-laden planes to the targets.

dropped bombs in northern Germany without noteworthy success. The report of the British Information Ministry that British planes bombed Berlin railway stations the night of November 23-24 is false. Not a single enemy plane crossed Berlin in that night.

"One British plane was downed in an air fight. Three German planes are missing."

ESQUIMALT Y.P.S.

The Esquimalt United Y.P.S. met Wednesday evening, Ruth Morgan presiding. A fellowship period was led by Mary Loudoun, president of the Lower Island Council. The executive of the council held a special session, and it was decided to hold the next meeting in the form of a theatre party. Alice Harvey then took the meeting, her subject being "Christian Citizenship." All members wishing to attend the theatre party are asked to meet at the church at 7.45 on Wednesday evening.

"The Italians left nine dead in the desert. We took 10 prisoners and suffered only two casualties." "I visited the prisoners today in a camp behind the lines. Two of them complained bitterly that their commanding officer had fled, leaving them at the mercy of the British fire."

12 Axis Ships Take Fuel; Stay At Tampico Docks

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP)—Three United States destroyers of the neutrality patrol were seen to fore down today two miles offshore from Tampico harbor, and 12 German and Italian merchant ships, which earlier made preparations as if to depart, remained at anchor.

The ships—three German and nine Italian vessels, which have been in Tampico harbor since early in the war— took aboard fuel loads and got up steam shortly after midnight.

Before dawn, however, tugs which had been standing by steamed away and heavy smoke was poured from the stacks of the ships.

The ships still had all lights burning and despite poor visibility, across the harbor the running lights of the neutrality patrol destroyers could be seen offshore in the gulf.

No warships of other powers had been seen in the vicinity.

At the office of the port captain it was said the German and Italian merchantmen had clearance papers, but no information could be given on when they might depart.

At the German and Italian consulates in Mexico City staff members were at work at 2 a.m., apparently in touch with Tampico.

Both consulates said they knew preparations had been made aboard the ships, but they had no information when they might leave port.

The German ships are the Orinoco, the Idarwald and the Rhein. The Italian vessels are the Lucifer, Stelvio, Genovano, Fede, Atlas, Americano, Vigor, Toscana and Marinare.

(Lloyd's Register of shipping lists the tonnage of the vessels as follows: Orinoco 9,660, Idarwald 5,033, Rhein 6,031, Lucifer 4,000, Stelvio 6,963, Fede 7,884, Atlas 2,005, Americano 7,008, Vigor 6,511 and Toscana 9,442. Lloyd's does not list a Genovano, but does have a Genovano of 6,067 tons. The Marinare, likewise, is not listed, but the Marina O is listed at 5,480 tons.)

The three German ships were among the four which attempted to dash to sea November 15, but returned when the fourth, the Phrygia, was scuttled by its crew. The Mexican Foreign Office on Friday night in its first official statement on that incident said it had concluded the three vessels fled back to port and the fourth was abandoned in the belief they had been hailed by British warships when destroyers of the United States neutrality patrol flashed a request for identification.

Viscount Craigavon

ALTHOUGH IT WAS CONFIDENTLY reported at one time that Viscount Craigavon himself predicted Irishmen in Ireland would eventually settle their own differences and become an important progressive national unit in the British Commonwealth, the Grim Reaper has taken him from the scene, and the people of the Six Counties today are paying homage to the man who had been Prime Minister of Northern Ireland since the establishment of its Parliament in 1921. He will not witness the much-desired rapprochement.

Viscount Craigavon borrowed his ideas of Ireland's destiny from no one; from the outset of his career as head of the government he fought with every means at his command all suggestions of a compromise with the Irish Free State which would have meant domination of Ulster's substantial minority. He was adamant when Mr. Cosgrave headed the administration at Dublin; to Mr. de Valera's "invitation" to participate in the new Constitution of Eire, the Northern Ireland Prime Minister and his supporters retorted with a stubborn negative. The religious issue is a case of oil and water; two beliefs do not mix in Erin.

At the outbreak of the war, of course, the Craigavon ministry threw in Ulster's lot with Britain without hesitation. Eire's policy of neutrality, the Dublin government's preservation of normal diplomatic relations with Germany, while not provoking outward hostility between Ireland's two parts, has certainly not brought the day of Viscount Craigavon's hopes any nearer. But the "Irish question" is no longer the external political issue it was before the Treaty of 1921.

The Pope's Message

ONE OF THE MAIN EXHORTATIONS of the homily which Pope Pius issued to the world from Rome yesterday was that Roman Catholics unite with him "in the divine sacrifice of atonement" in order that there might be "peace in our days." Specifically, however, His Holiness bespoke a new golden rule of war, urging that combatants under no circumstances "do to others that which they would not have done to themselves or their country." And while he asked that the war be fought "as humanely as possible," he pleaded for no special protection for the Vatican. All of the foregoing we commend to Mussolini, Hitler, the Emperor of Japan—who contemplates both present and future in his own way—and their satellites.

When he succeeded to the Papacy on March 2, 1939, we wrote of the man who spoke to the world yesterday as follows: "Perhaps none of the Cardinals eligible to succeed the late Pope Pius XI was better qualified, spiritually or intellectually, than Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli . . . that by reason of his close association with the practical as well as the spiritual atmosphere of the Holy See, nonetheless because of his familiarity with the outer atmosphere of the international realm, the 262nd head of Roman Catholicism will bring to his stupendous task a wealth of ripe experience and sound judgment." And we ended our tribute with the belief that the world would "welcome the encouragement and leadership which he who ministers to more than 350,000,000 Roman Catholics is qualified to give."

A letter which appeared on this page on Saturday suggested that "either you do not know or you forget that the Pope, as well as being the Vicar of Christ on earth and head of the Catholic Church, is the head of a sovereign state, Vatican City, one of the results of the Lateran Treaty." When Signor Benito Mussolini signed that document—in company with Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State—on February 11, 1929, a 59-year-old Roman question was satisfactorily solved, and Il Duce was complimented for the part he had taken in the pourparlers. We knew and had not forgotten; nor have we forgotten that it was the present Pope, incidentally, who negotiated the Berlin Concordat with Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen in the summer of 1933—after Adolf Hitler had settled himself in the Nazi saddle—which was intended to remove discrimination against members of the dissolved German Catholic Centre Party.

As our correspondent says, in the letter to which we have referred, the Lateran Treaty of 1929 precludes the Pope from taking sides "unless all parties ask for his intervention." Then, we read further, "the Pope is free, however, to denounce injustice, just as Christ did, and he has done so consistently . . ." but "these times . . . make strange bedfellows." The point we have already made, of course, by implication if not in plain statement of fact, is that no document exists in the archives of the Vatican which would condemn the present distinguished incumbent if he were to overstep legislative bounds and condemn totalitarianism and all its works in the market place. Mussolini might punish him, as Jesus Christ was punished, but 350,000,000 Catholics the world over would applaud him to the echo.

Greece's Day

THAT WAS A MEMORABLE PARADE of Greek sailors and members of the local Greek fraternity to the Cenotaph yesterday afternoon. It was a happy circumstance that such a representative body of seafaring men chanced to be in port as the cables announced from day to day how their brave compatriots were throwing back Mussolini's much-vaunted invaders. Victorians entered into the spirit of the occasion with a hearty spontaneity which we hope brought cheer to the men from their Mediterranean homeland. They have the satisfaction of knowing that even though Greece may be called upon to suffer more hardships as the war progresses, as the Axis powers vent their fury on weaker nations, her gallant people have stood up to the bully of Rome and have given him a foretaste of what is in store for him when the final bill is presented.

Unsung Heroes

LET US LEAVE FOR A MOMENT THE war of air raids and the destruction of innocent human beings and historic monuments and consider the case of a man who will get no military reward, a man who deliberately endangered his life so that generations then unborn might be spared a disease known as trembling paralysis.

Thirty-one years ago Sir Henry Head—who died at his Berkshire home in England the other day at the age of 79—risked paralysis by undergoing a dangerous experiment upon his nervous system. He undertook to have the nerves of his left arm severed near the elbow in order to study the problem of "deep sensibility," and he chronicled his feelings each day. Out of this experiment specialists were able to acquire considerable knowledge as to how messages are transmitted from the nerves to the brain. It has led to new forms of surgery being developed in the treatment of nervous diseases. Subsequently Sir Henry became afflicted with Parkinson's disease—another name for the malady of trembling paralysis—and he became a cripple. Medical men from all parts of the world corresponded with him on abstruse problems of neurology, and, as Sir Henry gradually lost the use of his hands, his wife undertook all his correspondence and handled his reference books for him.

In years gone by, of course, many members of the medical profession and the kindred sciences have blasted their personal hopes of fame and fortune in order that they at least might be remembered for some particular contribution to the cause of humanity. That there are still Henry Heads among us, in a world of destructive forces, assures us that the light of hope has not gone out.

Defence of Alaska

ALASKA'S SPARSE POPULATION HAS caused the architects of United States defence considerable apprehension ever since totalitarianism began to redraw the map of the world and carve up the spheres of influence the men of Berlin, Rome and Tokyo consider essential to their particular international racket. This vast territory adjoining British Columbia has attracted so few settlers that many Americans have feared it might fall an easy prey to a would-be invader.

Population figures, however, have been studied recently and the authorities in Washington are noting with some satisfaction—if not with noisy jubilation—that a recent compilation shows a total of 71,911 compared with 59,278 10 years ago. This is growth at the rate of 21.1 per cent—a rate exceeded during the same period only by Florida and New Mexico. The military population is now growing still faster, of course, and that always draws a certain amount of civilians to supply the army posts, so greater growth is definitely in sight. But, says one commentator, "it is still a pitifully small body of people to hold this vast territory on the direct 'invasion airline' from Asia." Would not a highway through British Columbia help Alaska to grow?

It's a "BlitzGreek" for Mussolini's army.

"Timeo danaos et dona ferentes" sang the earlier Italian, Vergil. Which, translated, means "I fear the Greeks bearing gifts"—not to mention rifles, cannon and the like.

SHELLS FROM B.C.
From B.C. Financial News

Early in 1941 British Columbia shell making plants should be at work turning out shells for the British and Canadian armies.

Good progress is now being made in the manufacturing of special lathes for the purpose.

When the first shells are produced, some sort of ceremony should mark the occasion, for they will represent a 100 per cent British Columbia effort.

Bottleneck of the armament and munitions industry in North America is the machine tool manufacturing industry. Canada's problem has been one of making the machines with which to make the machines and equipment for war.

British Columbia metal industries, going after shell contracts through the special nonprofit corporation set up in Ottawa, were confronted with the problem of procuring lathes for the job.

At first the plan was to make a light, single-purpose lathe, good for only one size of shells. This was scrapped in favor of a heavy, vibrationless, multi-purpose lathe which would still be within the competence of British Columbia plants to produce.

It is this lathe-making job which is now well under way. When it is finished the manufacture of shells will immediately follow. It is understood that first orders will probably be for anti-aircraft shells.

OBSCENE SHOW

IT'S GETTING NOW so that you can't even whisper among friends in this department. Apparently there are fifth columnists watching third columnists day and night. Thus some innocent remarks made in this space months ago, and intended only for the family, turn up, naked and shameful, on the broad pages of Collier's Weekly, New York.

There, months and months after the event, I am quoted as complaining that I made a speech to the Vancouver Women's Canadian Club (and what a frowsy speech that was, my friends!), and that I told the ladies nothing that they wouldn't have known if they read their daily papers and had any sense at all; and afterwards the ladies all said they were glad to learn all these wonderful inside, secret facts.

Now I can see no sense in what I wrote then. It was space filling only. It was chiseling on the people who pay me. But this preposterous little paragraph turns up on page 1 of Collier's as if it were a blinding revelation; as if it were typical of Canadian journalism, as if it gave the Americans a deep insight into Canadian life. The readers of Collier's will be confirmed in their original belief that Canada is inhabited by Mounted Policemen, grizzly bears, the quintuplets and a poor doddering old country editor by my name (which, incidentally, is spelled wrongly).

FOUL PLOT

BUT THERE IS MORE to this than meets the eye. There is dirty work at the cross roads of Park Avenue and Forty-Fifth Street. Down there Mr. Walter Davenport, Collier's star reporter and the best all-round writing man in the business, has never quite forgiven me for doubting his word. He has been waiting, lying crouched in his lair at 230 Park Avenue, on the 13th floor, in the corner, for a chance to spring on me, ever since he came to Victoria a couple of years ago.

On that occasion Mr. Davenport, accompanied by another desperate two-gun character named Jim Marshall, was fascinated by Victoria. He went home and wrote a piece about Victoria and he announced, unblushingly, without batting an eye, that if you wanted to get a shoeshine in the curious Old World town of Victoria you had to ask for an appointment with the bootblack in advance. And Mr. Davenport averred that before he could get a shine, the bootblack had to phone up three retired British colonels and ask them to postpone their appointments to another day.

Now of course I resented this libel on our bootblacks and on our civilization. Secretly I was pleased, of course, because I thought it would be a fine thing if this story were true. It would be a delightful sort of civilization if you had to make an appointment for a shoeshine. It would show a leisure, a reasonable tempo utterly lacking in New York, at 230 Park Avenue. But on behalf of Victoria I was bound to protest.

So I bitterly denounced Mr. Davenport's perversion. And I took occasion to point out that if Victoria was slow, New York was much slower. In New York I said traffic moves uptown at 12 miles an hour and across town at seven miles—the slowest town on earth. And Mr. Marshall, turning King's evidence and double-crossing Mr. Davenport, wrote me secretly that I was quite right, and you had to get an appointment in New York even for a hair cut and, said Mr. Marshall, it took 10 months down there to have a baby.

COLD-BLOODED FELLOW

ALL THIS MADE Mr. Davenport writhe in his lair at 230 Park Avenue. When I saw him a couple of weeks ago he disguised it well. You would have thought he was glad to see me. You would have thought he had forgotten about the bootblack altogether. Indeed, when I mentioned the subject he had the affrontery to insist that his story was true—you did have to get an appointment for a shoeshine in Victoria, and he went on to describe the bootblack as a short man with a long black beard, a hooked nose and a swivel eye. (I have been searching this town for the last week trying to find such a man, but there is none. Mr. Davenport, no doubt, will try to tell me the bootblack has retired or gone into the Legislature or something.)

At the very moment while Mr. Davenport and I were breaking bread together this man already was plotting to discredit me. He already had in type this absurd quotation to humiliate me and our local civilization. But not by word or expression did he indicate the dark plot brewing in his mind. That is the way they work in New York—darkly, with a smile on the face, a stiletto behind the back.

And in addition to all that, Mr. Marshall asked me to grow him some little oak trees that he could plant in his American garden as a kind of gesture of international friendship, and I have grown them steadily for three years now, watered and tended them with a deep sense of patriotism, and Mr. Marshall has never called for them. He has forgotten international friendship altogether. And if this kind of friction across the border continues, the Pact of Ogdenberg won't be worth a nickel.

OUT-AND-OUT UNION

between the British Commonwealth and the United States is the modified Union Now plan of Clarence Streit. I believe that this will come before 1945 because of the sheer logic of necessity. There are a hundred reasons why we must either unite or go down one by one. But just one will prove enough. It is this: That after this war is over, what is to prevent another and worse one, say 20 years later, unless we organize the world on a basis whereby a world police force controlled by a democratic process, ends the system of power politics?

The most important principle which I see running through social development is what Winston Churchill called recently "historical continuity." Just as the people of Britain formed their own union a few centuries ago, just as the people of the United States, Canada, and the other British countries did later on, so now the time has come for an extension of the process.

The union of the United States with the British Commonwealth is not only inevitable because of external threats to common safety. It is also as natural as the running of two streams into the same river.

At Sydney, Australia, just a year before the war, the British Commonwealth relations conference was held. This was unofficial and confidential. But in the published report it is stressed that the one thing upon which all the delegates could agree was

OF TIME AND ANNIVERSARIES

From Baltimore Sun

Long ago I learned not to make too much of anniversaries in the presence of middle-aged friends, for they are likely to be sensitive on the subject; so last week when I discovered by chance that an acquaintance was celebrating his 50th birthday I endeavored to tread lightly.

But it was wasted effort, for this specimen was expansive. "It's not half as bad as being 40," he declared. "At 40 you can kid yourself into believing that you can fool somebody into thinking that you are still a gay young dog, so you feel a sort of responsibility to keep up the struggle. But at 50 that's out. You're middle-aged, with no life, and no buts, and you are in no sense a traitor to your class if you acknowledge the fact quietly and comfortably. Since I no longer have no claim, even to myself, that I am one of the boys, I expect to live longer and more pleasantly."

THE TURNIP GOES FANCY

From Peterborough Examiner

The turnip looks as though it were starting to go high-hat. We have seen some of those turnip waxing stations in operation, and there the turnip is scrubbed, given a coating of wax, the idea of which is to seal the cut end, and then there is a little sticker placed on the top giving the name of the place from which the turnip was sent forth.

We have seen it stated that when the turnips get well down into the deep South of United States they reach the high mark of appreciation. They have nothing down there which tastes like a turnip, and they like them. The one advantage about the turnip is that one can eat great mounds of it with no harm. It is not high in food value but gives one the passing feeling that he has indeed fared well.

COUGH CHECKERS

Take a few of these dry licorice-minted tablets and you'll sleep in peace.

this: The British Commonwealth could not and should not stand either by itself or for itself.

Clarence Streit has shown convincingly that the same truth applies to the United States. But there is no country in all the world which has quite so much to gain as Canada if British-American union is effected—no more to lose if it is not, or even if it is too long delayed.

It is commonplace knowledge that Canada is a country of five separate geographical sections—the interests of most of which are drastically conflicting.

All of these conflicting tendencies would be reconciled by Union Now.

Canadians felt in 1914 to 1918 that they were called upon to pay an appalling price in the winning of a war. Yet they had no voice whatever in the shaping of the policies which preceded the war.

The League of Nations device was expected to remedy this defect. It did not do so, partly because of a fatal defect in its mechanism—that it was a league of governments, not a union of peoples—in brief, too flimsy and unnatural. But the fatal weakness was the nonparticipation of the United States. Union Now would be built on a British-American foundation.

Canada is tied by bonds of ideology to Britain and by equally strong ties of geography and necessity to the United States.

Union Now guarantees that these two ties will never pull again in opposite directions—as they have so often done before.

NEW TO RESCUE OLD

From Toronto Star

When Mr. Churchill talked some time ago about the New World, in God's good time, coming to the rescue of the Old, he was a true prophet. Britain's hope of final victory—so far as machines and munitions can achieve that victory—lies in her own factories and those of North America. From the United States and Canada an increasing supply of war material will cross the Atlantic. From Canada, as well, will go an ever larger number of trained ilks to help win that supremacy in the air which is vital to a final triumph.

BOYCOTT GERMAN MUSIC?

From Toronto Globe and Mail

Sir Thomas Beecham, outstanding British conductor and composer now in Canada, says the boycotting of German music would be "stilly." Sir Thomas is right. Good music is one thing that should be preserved no matter where it originates. It is nonsense to claim that because a nation becomes an enemy the arts of its people also should become objects of hatred. Music is international, the property of all who love it.

FOR SUNDAY MOVIES

From Halifax Chronicle

The time has come for some action on the question of Sunday movies for Halifax.

The plight of the service men on Sunday nights at present is bad enough, but in the bitter nights ahead of us it will be far worse. Sunday movies offer a means of wholesome amusement for the men, some of whom will turn to less desirable activities if nothing else is offered.

And even though the majority of the men will keep out of trouble, in any case, it is a poor reward for their services to deprive them of innocent entertainment on a Sunday night.

The war has broken down British reserve. Britons now talk to one another without being introduced.—William Hillman, European war correspondent.

City Hall Briefs

STILL HOPING TO SEND CHEER

Negotiations are still being held in London to see if a mission can be secured for import of food in the form of Christmas Cheer from Victoria to war victims in the British metropolis. Word to that effect was contained in a letter received today by Alderman W. H. Davies from W. A. McAdam, acting agent-general. Mr. McAdam reported on efforts to make possible the sending of foodstuffs from this city to England, but stated that while the Lord Mayor of London had looked with favor upon the plan, regulations regarding imports had prevented any action through his office. Should any developments ensue, Mr. McAdam promised to cable Alderman Davies.

Establishment of a Ladies Patriotic Reception Committee to meet almsmen coming through Victoria to join the Commonwealth Air Training Scheme and to present to them souvenirs of Vancouver Island, is suggested by Wm. E. G. Crisford in a letter received at the City Hall today.

The city building inspector's department allowed without charge Saturday a permit for the construction of an assembly hall at Victoria Hostess House, 1082 Fort Street, where facilities are being made for entertainment of service men. Value of the necessary construction was put at the nominal figure of $200, and work will be carried out by soldiers on a day-labor basis, according to the permit.

Solarium Tea Drew Many Guests to Mrs. Nichol's

With an excellent cause and a delightful setting as the principal ingredients, the Solarium Junior League found the recipe for success when, on Saturday afternoon, their chrysanthemum tea drew a large gathering to the charming home of Mrs. Walter C. Nichol, Rockland Avenue. As a result the funds will be augmented by about $150.

Mrs. Nichol was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. R. D. McCullough, the president. The spacious hall and reception rooms were arranged with a profusion of magnificent potted chrysanthemums in shades of yellow, bronze and white which graced the rooms, and in the centre of the tea table in the dining-room were bronze chrysanthemums and green tapers. Presiding at the tea and coffee urns were Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, Mrs. Curtis Sampson, Mrs. F. E. Winslow and Mrs. J. D. Hunter.

The pleasure of the guests was enhanced by an attractive musical program. Mrs. Peggy Moore sang two solos: "Let My Song Fill Your Heart," and "Five Eyes," and Master Keith Little delighted the gathering with his solos, "Cockles and Mussels," "When Apples Grow Upon a Lilac Tree" and "In An Old-fashioned Town," Mrs. G. A. McCurdy accompanying the singers. Miss Maryann Peterson, pianist, contributed "The Lark" (Glinka), two Schubert preludes and a Brahms waltz.

Mrs. E. J. Davis was the general convener, and helping her in the success of the tea was the committee, including Mrs. Denis Humphries, Mrs. E. S. Horsman, Miss Barbara Kennedy and Miss Eve Lytton.

METROPOLITAN Y.P.S.

Mrs. O. A. Butters was speaker at the weekly meeting of the Metropolitan Y.P.S. which was held as a missionary night. Mrs. Butters had lived in Persia (Iran) for many years and gave an interesting lecture on that country, both before and after its modernization.

At a short business session, with Ken Priestly in the chair, plans for the Penny Fair to be held on December 3 were discussed. Next week the meeting will be held to make final arrangements for the Penny Fair. All members are requested to attend and do their share to make it a success.

Pontiac Joins Buick at Davis-Drake

20,000 Feet of Ground Space
At Fort, Quadra and View;
Headquarters for Two Great Cars

Many cities have their "Automobile Rows" but here is Victoria's "Automobile Square", and within this humming centre of activity are not only to be seen the latest models of the world-famous Buick and the "Fleetleader" Pontiac, but here also is everything in parts, service and personnel for owners of these great General Motors cars — everything that makes for dependable service and happy ownership.

Throughout Canada, Pontiac

service and Pontiac sales go hand in hand with Buick service and sales—this being the General Motors scientific service plan for its two great cars—Pontiac and Buick. And now that this logical plan has been extended to Victoria and Vancouver Island, the Davis-Drake complete service, parts and repairs organization is at your command.

The same intelligent energy which has been, during nearly a quarter century, offered Buick owners is now offered to the Pontiac owner. Davis-Drake shops and mechanical staff are among the finest in British Columbia and every man in the organization is out to make new friends among Pontiac owners by the simple expedient of affording a Pontiac service never before available or possible.

All Pontiac owners will naturally be interested in the brilliant Pontiacs for '41, and here, at Victoria Pontiac headquarters, you are invited to see the stuff new models the only completely new General Motors cars of the season.

Davis-Drake Motors Ltd. Firm of Long Experience

There are few better-known Victoria citizens, and few more popular, than "Billy" Davis and Sam Drake. W. A. Davis first entered the great Buick family way back in 1911, with the old Western Motor Supply Company, which was then headed by the late General R. P. Clark, affectionately remembered by many old-timers. In 1930 Mr. Davis was joined by Mr. S. J. Drake and since then Managing Director Davis and Business Manager Drake have become one of the most esteemed of General Motors dealers in the west. The firm moved from Yates Street about six years ago and bought the property at the present location facing on Fort, Quadra and View Streets, where their business has shown steady growth along the substantial lines that appeal to the people of this community.

Davis-Drake Staff 'Know Their Stuff'

"Know their stuff." Perhaps not a very elegant phrase, but a very apt one and in this case a very true one. No organization worthy of the name should depend upon the efforts and intelligence of any one or two men, and at Davis-Drake the service afforded the motoring public of the island is the result of co-operative effort of a staff of some 50 people, each trained and chosen for efficiency in their respective spheres. And it is the unfailing courtesy and helpfulness of these staff members that make it a pleasure for the motorist to come into Davis-Drake, even when it costs him money.

D. A. Nairne, the service superintendent, is known to everyone as "Dave"; and I. A. Cameron, known, of course, as "Cammie," is the inevitable Scotch engineer in charge of the mechanical shop. Harry Hutchinson is a wizard with upholstery problems. Stan Doldge would rather talk about painting than anything else. Charlie Turner is death on body bumps and radiator ills, and when it comes to knowing all about the 4,999 parts and accessories for Buick and Pontiac, the man to look for is Fred Hallier.

The famous United Motors service is dispensed by Walter Battison. Salesmanagers Glenn O. Smith and Harry Dunn are responsible for the sales of Pontiac and Buick respectively and they are ably supported by their salesmen, Charles Butt and C. W. Lovell. And up-island motorists all know the obliging efficiency of E. M. Waidie in charge of the Duncan branch of the firm. In every organization it is said that there should be a rather pessimistic Scotsman in the background just to put a curb on any unseemly optimism. Well, as secretary of the company we have R. M. Lochhead, the Scotsman, but, as his host of friends well know, he believes the idea that a Scotsman must be pessimistic. And in the office management Mr. Lochhead is ably assisted by the only lady on the staff, Miss Evelyn Neate.

Complete Paint Plant

Beauty today is a tremendously important item in the automobile world and to help the owners of older cars keep up with the beauty parade of the later models is one of the pleasant jobs of our paint shop. Here the latest color schemes are carried out with art and precision and up to the finest factory specifications. Matching of colors is something in which this department prides itself so that unfortunate encounters with lamp post or garage doors need not permanently mar the beauty of any car.

Upholstery By Expert

Davis-Drake claim that their is a complete service organization and one begins to realize this when they find that there is even a complete upholstery department. Apart from damage through accident, many older cars sadly need a little interior decoration and here drivers of aesthetic tastes will find that the car interior can be "done up" just as well and as pleasantly as the living-room. And as for patching and matching, well, just try this Davis-Drake service.

Radiator and Body Department

Especially at this time of year the radiator takes on a decided importance, as many drivers know to their sorrow, but in this department at Davis-Drake they really know radiators and what ails them. While no one driving a new Buick or a new Pontiac is even going to know that they have a radiator, there are hundreds of cars on Victoria streets that would be very much better for a trip to our radiator adviser. And whether it's merely a matter of taking out a dent or two or the complete rebuilding of a body that has met with misfortune, the Davis-Drake body shops are completely equipped to do the whole job.

GMC TRUCKS 1st in Power, 1st in Economy And First in Driver Comfort

G.M.C. Trucks are a revelation in comfort and easy handling. Controls are placed just right. Instruments are grouped for split-second visibility! Cabs have generous leg room and buoyantly cushioned seats. And now all G.M.C.'s, including the 1/2-ton models, have an outstanding steering development that makes driving "as easy as in your own car."

For two years drivers of medium and heavy General Motors trucks have enjoyed an exclusive effortless-steering feature. They have proved its reliability in millions of miles of hard service. They say it's the greatest driving comfort and truck safety development of the age. Add the greater pulling ability of G.M.C.'s superduty engines and you have driver appeal that simply cannot be matched!

Up to this time Davis-Drake has sold only the larger size trucks but their record with these has been so consistently good in all respects that General Motors has now given them the franchise for all models from 1/2-ton to 10-ton, and these include both gasoline and Diesel-powered engines.

The G.M.C. truck is definitely the truck of value and with all the latest features on the new models its superiority on every point all along the line puts it in the same position in the commercial world as has been won by Pontiacs and Buicks among passenger vehicles.

Davis-Drake Offer

United Motors Service has taken the guesswork out of electrical and motor and combustion problems and it is in keeping with the efficiency of the other services offered at Buick-Pontiac headquarters that this nationally-famous service should be available. Mr. Walter Battison, who is in charge of this department, has had the benefit of special training under the sponsorship of United Motors Service and is fully qualified in this work.

Scientific brake testing and all lighting problems come within the scope of this very modern department, which motorists are cordially invited to visit.

The New 1941 Pontiac

All styled in the torpedo manner, Pontiac for 1941 offers five series of cars—The Fleetleader Standard, the Fleetleader Special, the De Luxe Six and Eight, and the Streamliner Eight. The new models are graceful and arresting in appearance, longer in wheelbase and designed to provide outstanding all-round performance. Shown above is the striking new low-priced Fleetleader 4-door sedan.

Torpedo Body For Pontiacs

Continuing its pioneering in the field of aerodynamic styling, Pontiac for 1941 has adopted the torpedo type of body for its entire range of cars.

Five distinct price groups are covered by the daringly-designed cars, which are offered in the low-priced Fleetleader, the Fleetleader Special, and the De Luxe Six, De Luxe Eight and the Streamliner Eight. All are replete with mechanical advancements achieving increased power, comfort and safety, and all are powered by the celebrated Pontiac L-head engine.

In the lowest-price class, the Fleetleader and the Fleetleader Special are offered on a 116-inch wheelbase. Then come the De Luxe Six and the De Luxe Eight on a 119-inch wheelbase, and the Streamliner Eight with a 122-inch wheelbase. Overall length of these are respectively 198 inches, 201½ inches, and 207½ inches.

Although radiators, hoods, fenders, other sheet metal parts and the Fisher bodies have been restyled to glorify the torpedo design, Pontiac for the seventh consecutive year retains its well-known Silver Streak as a basic style theme.

Sparkling chrome is generously used from radiator to rear bumper, while wide, massive horizontal chrome radiator grilles extend from headlamp to headlamp, and the heavy-duty bumper guards are built solidly into the body. Between the front bumper guards is a built-in space for the license plate. Scarcely visible in the daytime, the parking lights are ingeniously located so that they blend into the broad radiator grille beside the headlamps. The new models also feature concealed or built-in running boards which are visible only when the doors are open.

WIDER FRONT SEAT

An inspection of the interiors of the Fleetleader and De Luxe series shows that the front seat width has been increased 2½ inches over the 1940 dimensions, and now measures 37½ inches, while in the Streamliner series the front seat is 60 inches wide, providing ample space for three passengers. At the same time, a further widening of the rear seats has been achieved by widening the rear tread.

In order that the driver may have an unobstructed view of the dial cluster through the new safety steering wheel, Pontiac designers have given special attention to the instrument panel. A three-spoke type of steering wheel is featured on the Fleetleader series, an inverted-V type on the Fleetleader Special series and the two-spoke type on the De Luxe and Streamliner series. Other outstanding features include a variable instrument panel light controlled by a switch located at the right of the speedometer; a safety hood lock which operates from a control just below the instrument panel to the left of the steering column, and a rolled lower edge of the dash which contributes to greater rigidity.

A noteworthy new convenience and safety feature on the De Luxe and Streamliner series is the automatic lighting of the car interior. Upon the opening of either door, a switch which is located on the rear edge of the door pillars operates automatically to turn on the dome light. On the Fleetleader Special the switch is on the left front door.

Torpedo styling combined with larger windshields and narrower corner posts contribute to increased vision. On the Fleetleader and De Luxe series the windshield area has been increased by more than 90 inches over last year's corresponding series, while the total glass area on the Streamliner models has also been increased considerably. Complete protection from sun glare is provided by the new type of adjustable sun visors which can be tilted up and down or pivoted from side to side. At the same time, they can be moved sideways to fill the centre space around the rear-view mirror. For the convenience of front-seat passengers, a new disappearing ash receiver, consisting of a sliding tray, is located directly below the radio grille.

All the new Pontiac models feature spacious and readily accessible luggage compartments. The spare tire is mounted in the fore-and-aft position along the right side in all sedan models, while the coupe and sedan coupe models have a shelf above the entire trunk floor, the tire being located under the shelf. Rubber pads are used to protect fenders from flying stones.

The old-fashioned diving rod, for locating oil and water, has given way to electricity and dynamo in locating nature's secrets.

Vancouver and Spokane Victors

Vancouver Lions strengthened their hold on first place in the Coast Hockey League over the week-end while Spokane Bombers climbed from the cellar into a third-place tie with Seattle Olympics.

Owen "Lulu" Lennon came to the rescue of the Lions at Seattle Saturday night when he slammed the winning counter past Seattle's goalie, little Paul Gauthier, in the final seconds of the game to break a deadlock and give Vancouver a 5 to 4 victory.

Spokane, on the other hand, poured a four-goal attack at Portland Buckaroos in the first two periods of the Sunday night game at Spokane, and coasted through the last stanza for a 4 to 0 triumph.

Nanaimo Draws With Champs

Sports Mirror

By FETE SALLAWAY

PARADE OF CHAMPIONS and former champions is the best way to describe tonight's Red Cross badminton show at the Willows, featuring the appearance of Jack Purcell, recognized as the professional champion of the world. Supporting Purcell on the card will be some of the finest shuttle batters developed in the province.

Against Purcell in the singles will be Johnny Samis of Vancouver, former Canadian amateur singles champ. Eric Leney of Duncan, who will appear in the men's doubles, formerly shared the Canadian mixed doubles crown. George Lane, another participant, is the present city singles monarch. Mrs. R. Knott and Phyllis Sluggett are the sister combination that has ruled city and island championships in recent years. Joyce Thomson, who will also appear in the women's doubles, is a former city ruler, while in the mixed affair Don Davis and Gladys McCall, present city titleholders, will appear.

That's a pretty smart array of badminton talent to throw together for one evening's performance and the spectators tonight are certain to see some first class play. Then the show is being staged for the benefit of the Red Cross, a worthy cause. Jump into your cars, you sports fans and take a run out to the Willows. We will guarantee a couple of hours of fine entertainment.

We read where Royal Canadian Air Force recruits have developed a new sport at Camp Borden, Ont. It is known as "Borden Ball" and combines features of hockey, rugby, lacrosse and basketball. It is quite possible the boys out at Patricia Bay will take up the sport.

Fast and full of action, the game is played between six-man teams but the pace requires frequent replacements during the two 15-minute periods. Each team is composed of a goalie, two defencemen and three forwards. The field or floor surface is approximately the size of a standard hockey rink and the goals placed at each end, within a five-yard semicircular crease, are similar to hockey and lacrosse goals. The ball used is the standard rugby football which is passed from one player to another until it is thrown at the goal from outside the crease.

Eastern sports writers have Mike Jacobs moving into Chicago chiefly for the purpose of re-establishing himself so he can unload a second edition of the Max Baer-Joe Louis script. Chicago is the only spot where it might go fairly well.

Max Baer made his greatest fights in Chicago. The Californian had poor Ernie Schaaf flat on his back at the end of 10 rounds fought so savagely that many suspect the late sailor never recovered. He knocked out Tuffy Griffiths, and topped it all off by disposing of King Levinsky with big gloves in the second round.

The good people of the lake-front were spared the sight of Baer clowning while losing the title to Jim Braddock. They did not see him quit on one knee to Joe Louis and cut up and stopped by Lou Nova.

He fed Charley Retzlaff and Harry Thomas to Louis there, the latter bringing out a confession and investigation.

St. Andrews took over top berth in the Pacific Coast Soccer League from St. Saviours over the week-end while Nanaimo moved into fourth spot ahead of North Shore United.

Led by centre forward Johnny Macintosh, who collected four goals, the Scots trimmed North Shore 5 to 2 at Vancouver Saturday.

Nanaimo made its jump ahead of the Reds Sunday by holding Radials to a 3 to 3 draw at the Vancouver Island coal-mining town.

St. Saviours, who were idle, are now in second place with eight points—one less than St. Andrews—and Radials are third with seven points. Victoria United, last year's pace-setters are in the cellar with three points, having won only one game and tied another in six starts.

Johnny Craig scored St. Andrews first counter after 30 minutes of play but Jimmy Worswick, centre forward with Victoria last year, evened the count for the Reds, 10 minutes later to leave the teams tied at 1 to 1 at the end of the first half.

Macintosh rammed his first goal in 15 minutes after the half time whistle but Russ Hendricks tied the count again a few seconds later. Macintosh was in on practically every play from then on and netted his three other goals at intervals of 10 minutes his last in the final seconds of the match.

Nanaimo and Radials staged a keenly contested match all the way with the islanders scoring the tying marker in the last two minutes of the match.

Alvin Parkes gave Nanaimo an early lead but Norm Kerfoot evened the count and George West sent Radials into a 2 to 1 lead in the first half.

Jimmy Tantrum, Nanaimo forward, again evened the count scoring a penalty shot awarded against Tommy McKibbin for handling, but Johnny Mackay sent Radials in front eight minutes from time.

Tantrum missed three successive chances with wide shots and Art Denton tried twice before he was able to put the ball past goalie B. Lawrie to give Nanaimo the tying counter.

Purcell Plays Here Tonight
 Jack Purcell of Toronto, Canadian professional badminton champion, and Johnny Samis of Vancouver, British Columbia amateur titleholder and former Canadian champion, were in Victoria today. They will play an exhibition match tonight at the Willows in aid of the Red Cross.

The program will start at 8, with such well-known players as Eric Leney, George Lane, Don Davis, Gladys McCall, Joyce Thomson, Phyllis Sluggett and Mrs. R. Knott on the supporting card.

Purcell will attempt to avenge a 15-17 defeat, his first in a cross-country tour he is making, handed him by the Vancouver boy at the mainland city Saturday night.

The two stars went to New Westminster yesterday where they repeated Saturday night victories over Norm Mustart and Ernie Strachan, both of Vancouver, in a doubles match.

Loverich Star In Seattle Win

A letter-balanced, bigger and heavier S. L. Savidge team from Seattle on Saturday night sent a hard-fighting Victoria Domino outfit down to defeat 38 to 29, in the best intercity basketball exhibition witnessed this season at the Willows Sports Centre. The lads from the shores of Puget Sound, with only three games under their belts this year, flashed more class than the locals, getting the lion's share of the rebounds and the tip-offs during the evening.

The visitors started the basket nets swishing in the early moments of the contest and were never headed after that. They ran up a 6 to 0 lead in short order, but before the opening session finished the Dominos were trailing by only three points, the score board reading 8 to 5.

The second quarter was the best of the game, both teams opening the throttle, showing speed and shooting ability. "Busker" Jackson came on for the home-town boys in this quarter, and sparked them to 11 points by sinking two beautiful howitzer shots from well out on the floor. Seattle was not lagging, however, and equalled the Domino score.

SAVAGES OPEN UP

Downfall of the locals came in the third session, when Steve Antonic's ballmen really found the range of the Victoria hoop, dropping in a heart-breaking total of 13 markers while holding Dave Nicol's lads to one field basket and a foul shot.

Dominos tried to repair the damage in the final 15 minutes, but found a 13-point lead too much. They outscored the Americans 10 to 6, however, the only quarter in which they managed to top the visitors.

Best man on the floor was Savidge's Ed Loverich, who led the Seattle drive throughout the game. He played a clean game, and his shooting, combined with his ability in grabbing off rebounds, earned him 19 points. Chuck Chapman was the Domino standout, and was the only man on the local team who was snagging the ball off the basket boards. He scored four field baskets for eight points.

Most facetious note of the evening: As the crowd shivered in the frigid interior of the Sports Centre at the interval before the main game, a recording entitled "On a Simmering Summer Day" was played on the phonograph.

In preliminary games K.V.'s defeated West Road in a senior men's league clash 40 to 31 and K.V.'s turned back Y.M.C.A. 21 to 14. League games at the High School resulted as follows: Young Dominos 43, Cloverdale Aces 12; St. Louis College 22, Chinese Students 17; Ramblers 22, Young Arrows 20.

Hoop Games for Tonight, Tuesday

There will be action on the local basketball battlefield tonight and tomorrow night, with minor league teams battling at the Sports Centre and High School.

A trio of games will be presented tonight by the Victoria and District Basketball League at the Sports Centre. Fairfield and K.V.'s, intermediate B boys, open the show at 7, with senior C men 5th Brigade, N.P.A.M., and Victorians meeting in the second attraction. Final game on the card will bring together 5th Brigade, N.P.A.M., and West Road, senior B men.

Tomorrow night at the High School another three-game show is slated. St. Louis College and Y.M.C.A. will appear in the curtain-raiser at 7. Women's League Cardinals and Adverts are booked for the second battle, while Navy and Capitals of intermediate A boys' company take the floor for the closing struggle.

Syd Howe Still Tops Ice Scorers

Football Turmoil

Winnipeg Waits

A flurry of football activity in committee rooms and on playing fields over the week-end left the Canadian football situation clarified in some aspects and confused in others.

Clarification department: The Canadian Rugby Union ordered a two-game, total-points eastern final, but Fred Hamilton, president of the Sports Service League, Toronto, still thinks his organization can arrange an east-west game.

Ottawa and Balm Beach will play in Toronto November 30 and in Ottawa December 7. Undaunted, Hamilton is trying to arrange an exhibition game for Winnipeg Blue Bombers, western champions, in Toronto December 7 and another game between Winnipeg and the eastern champions in Toronto December 14.

Saturday Ottawa beat Argos 8 to 1 to win the Interprovincial Union crown 20 to 2 and Balm Beach blanked Sarnia 12 to 0 to take the Ontario Rugby Football Union title 24 to 0. But even in the heat of the two battles, much fan-interest was centred around the east-west game turmoil.

WIRES ARE HOT

Sunday night the wires were hot with statements from the various parties concerned.

Fred Hamilton: "I have asked Balm Beach and Ottawa to consent to the winner of the eastern final meeting Winnipeg in Toronto December 14 with proceeds to be split between eastern and western war charities and the Sports Service League. I have asked John Bannerman of Calgary, C.R.U. president, if his body would object to such an exhibition contest."

Joe Ryan, manager of Winnipeg Blue Bombers: "We agreed to play a game or games in the east to aid war services. We are still waiting to play if the east will provide an opponent. If we don't know for sure by Tuesday, Bombers will disband for this season."

Head of Kennel Club Will Speak

Reg Sparkes, president of the Canadian Kennel Club, will visit Victoria tomorrow. He will address members of the club, and any other dog fanciers who wish to attend, at the Empress Hotel at 8 in the evening.

Mr. Sparkes will speak on the activities of the C.K.C. dog shows and the fancy in general.

His visit will be of special interest to the bulldog fanciers for he owns one of the largest kennels of this particular breed in North America. His recent importation from England, the great champion, "Rasford Golden Nymph," for which he paid the record price of $12,000 and six other dogs of very much the same calibre and 27 brood bitches constitute his valuable kennel.

He will be accompanied by Bill Pym, Vancouver, second vice-president of the Canadian Kennel Club, and Vic Williams, also of Vancouver, British Columbia director of the club.

Navy, College and Brentwood Winners

Exhibition rugby matches on Saturday saw the Navy defeat the 2nd Battalion Canadian Scottish 11 to 6; Brentwood College turn back the University School 16 to 9 and Victoria College blank the Oak Bay Wanderers in the first quarter, a touchdown and convert.

In their match with the Scottish at Macdonald Park the Navy went into a first half 3 to 0 lead on Chuck Sweet's try. Scottish deadlocked the score soon after halftime when Mollison went over for a try. Steve Coverton put the sailors back on top but Campbell Forbes converted a free kick for three points to tie it up again. Sweet's second try minutes before the finish gave the Navy victory. Horne converted to make the margin five points.

Brentwood's win over the University School on the latter's pitch was their fifth straight. The winners led 8 to 3 at halftime. Scorers for Brentwood were I. G. Gillespie, Angus, J. Gillespie and Holmes with McKay, Mercer and Jukes.

Brinks Victors By 24 Points

VANCOUVER (CP)—Alberta's rugged Calgary Brinks headed back for the Foothills City today after a successful expedition across the Rockies which ended at Athletic Park here Saturday with the maroon-clad punters smothering the Vancouver Bulldogs 35 to 11 in a Canadian football exhibition game.

The Vancouver backs compared favorably with their Calgary opponents, but the Bulldogs' line was no match for the smooth-working Brink machine.

The prairie team went to work right from the start, carrying the play into Vancouver territory, but were held to six points in the first quarter, a touchdown and convert.

They added three touchdowns in the second quarter, however, and went over for two more in the third, failing to convert the last one.

The Bulldogs were held scoreless up to this time, but managed to collect one point on a kick to deadline before the teams changed ends for the fourth quarter. The Vancouver team then added two unconverted touchdowns in the final session.

In the first quarter Gilkes went over for Calgary and Hal Harrison converted. Brinks increased the pressure in the second quarter with Gilkes, Haynes and Turner crossing the Vancouver line. All were converted by Haynes, Cosgrave and Wusyk. In the third quarter Hughes and Harrison scored touchdowns with the former kicking his own convert.

Vancouver got a lone point in the third quarter from a rouge and added two touchdowns in the fourth quarter by Andy Lang.

Seldom does a National Hockey League season go by without a new scoring sensation being uncovered, and this season it seems likely to be Tony Demers, the "Little Hercules" of Montreal Canadiens.

Demers has accounted this season for exactly one-third of the 15 goals marked up by his team. Those five goals are enough to give him a share with George Allen of Chicago Black Hawks of first place among N.H.L. goal-getters.

Two of Tony's goals came during the week-end, as Canadiens split a pair of games with New York Americans. Demers got one as the Flying Frenchmen won their first game of the season by beating Americans 3 to 1 in Montreal Saturday night. He scored the other as Canadiens went down 2 to 1 to Americans in New York last night.

BENOIT STARS

Joe Benoit, who played amateur with Trail Smoke Eaters last season, also played a prominent part in Canadiens' first victory. He shot home two goals in 37 seconds in the Saturday contest. Americans' lone goal in that game was scored by Norm Larson, while the Sunday night goals went to Johnny (Peanuts) O'Flaherty and Charlie Conacher.

In other week-end games, Boston Bruins topped New York Rangers 2 to 1 on Saturday night and then drew 1 to 1 last night with Detroit Red Wings while Toronto Maple Leafs defeated Chicago Black Hawks 4 to 2 in Chicago last night after dropping a 1 to 0 decision to the Hawks in Toronto on Saturday.

Leaf's Saturday loss brought an end to a five-game winning streak, the best compiled by any N.H.L. team in the still-young season. Cully Dahlstrom scored the winning tally in the second period.

Score Shutouts In League Soccer

Three one-sided shutouts were scored in Victoria and District Soccer League play over the weekend. Yesterday at Bullen Park a smooth-working Esquimalt team beat Royal Canadian Artillery 5 to 0. Saturday at Athletic Park, the league-leading Victoria West team beat Saanich Thistles 6 to 0, and at Heywood Avenue Park Victoria City put down the Rangers 4 to 0.

With the forward line flashing brilliantly for most of the 90 minutes of play, Manager Jock McCall's Esquimalt club had little trouble downing the army team.

Barney Barnswell and Frank English both scored two goals. The fifth was fired by Cyril Holt. Holt's goal came first, about 10 minutes after the opening whistle, and was the finest score of the game. Holt picked the opening from about 25 yards out and drove the leather home.

Barnswell scored the next two, leaving the score at 3 to 0 when half time arrived. His first came five minutes after Holt's header-sagger when he took a cross from the right, scoring from about 20 yards out. Just before half time Barney took a cross from left and headed past the goalkeeper.

With 10 minutes gone in the second half, English took the ball through the army back-line and made the kill. He scored the final goal from a right cross. He took the cross from a few yards out of the goalmouth.

WESTS DOWN THISTLES

Last year's title winners, Victoria West, was a much better team than Saanich Thistles in their Saturday game at Athletic Park.

A fight between Thistles' goalie, Bill Robbins, and Puss of the Wests early in the game, just after the first goal was scored, resulted in both players being sent out of the game. The incident left a bad taste in the mouths of the scattering of fans on hand. Mowatt took over the goal-tending chores for Saanich and made a good stab at keeping the score down.

Johnny Munroe scored the first goal just before the flare-up. The second put in its appearance before the half-time interval with Terry Carlow delivering.

Early in the second half Munroe scored again, which was followed by a nice score by Popham. Perkins made it 5 to 0 soon after that when he headed in Carlow's nice cross. Just before the end West's left winger tricked Underwood, Thistles back, and beat Mowatt to the punch.

Bill Cull refereed.

CITY TRIUMPHS

Playing a man short and feeling the loss of several regular players who have joined the army, Rangers took it on the chin 4 to 0 at the hands of Victoria City at Heywood Avenue.

City players were on top of Ranger's goal most of the game, but they were kept from scoring until late in the first period.

Sage shot the first goal, and the half-time rest period came with the scoreboard reading 1 to 0.

Rangers tired in the second half and before they knew it Reside had scored twice in quick succession. Sage scored the fourth.

Goalie Saunders for Rangers played a super game.

J. Kennedy Wins Gorge Vale Golf

J. Kennedy won the men's medal competition at the Gorge Vale Golf Club yesterday with a net score of 68.

Jack Patterson B.C. Champion

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight young boxers—two of them from Vancouver Island—were named British Columbia champions when the second annual golden gloves amateur boxing tournament closed here Saturday.

The winners will travel to Seattle to compete in the annual Golden Gloves tournament there early next month.

Jack Patterson of Victoria was crowned heavyweight champion after he scored a technical knockout over Sir Argyle of Creston, B.C., in the second round while Terry Doyle of Nanaimo won a decision from Jimmy Deumont of Port Alberni, for the lightweight title.

Alan Dunn, South Vancouver, was crowned light-heavyweight champion.

Norman Dawson, Vancouver, decided Everett Viggs, Alberni, in a middleweight semi-final and then scored a technical knockout in the first round against Hans Egli of Keremeos, B.C., to win the title.

Other champions declared were: Welterweight: Gordon Woodhouse, Vancouver; featherweight, Pete Chapman, Vancouver; bantamweight, Tadao Kato, North Vancouver; flyweight, Jackie Turner, Vancouver.

Longden Rides Well

SAN MATEO, Calif. (CP)—Johnny Longden, veteran jockey from Taber, Alta., boosted home three winners Saturday at Bay Meadows race track, one of them C. S. Howard's Ruckackack, who won the $5,000-added Salinas handicap for two-year-olds.

Ruckackack, a half-sister of Sea-biscuit, ran the 1:16 mile handicap distance in 1:45.35 and paid $12.40, $7 and $5.20. Longden's other winners were Recoatna in the fifth race and Silasweep in the eighth.

TORONTO, AMERICANS WIN RETURN GAMES IN N.H.L.

In Chicago Dave Schirer accounted for two goals, and Gus Marker and Syl Apps one apiece. The Chicago scores went to Joe Cooper and Rookie Red Mackay. Apps' goal came on a breakaway late in the third period.

The Rangers, last team in the league to leave the unbeaten list, were sent into the loss column for the first time as Roy Conacher found the range for a pair of goals. The only Ranger score went to Dutch Hiller.

Art Jackson scored for the Bruins against Detroit, with Syd Howe being credited with the Red Wing goal. The Bruins protested that Howe swung a high stick at the puck, making the goal illegal. Referee Frank (King) Clancy maintained that the puck went in off Dit Clapper's hand, and therefore gave him no alternative but to award a goal to the Wings.

Four Generations

The sound of merry laughter, the babble of many voices, talking of old days, the strong vibrant song of a blind man on his 90th birthday came from "Hollyhedge Farm," at Colquitz yesterday as four generations of the Barker family, with in-laws, cousins, sisters, aunts and old friends gathered to honor W. James Barker, who was born November 24, 1850.

He is shown above with his son, David, 65, his grandson, D. Leslie, 38, and his great grandson, L. Gordon Barker.

Hale and hearty, despite his loss of eyesight, Mr. Barker was the life of the party. He sang for all his guests, he played the piano and the violin.

"Give me your hand, now," he said a hundred times during the day. "We'll dance," and he broke into a gay barn tap of many years ago, humming the accompaniment himself.

He told stories, too, and talked of the old days when he and his family settled on the Colquitz farm, when his children were young and the grandchildren came to visit the pleasant, old-fashioned homestead.

Mr. Barker had his six children about him on his birthday and most of his 12 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren were there too. His wife died in 1923.

His 65-year-old twin sons, David of Vancouver, and Jim of Thetis Lake, were at the round of parties. So was the third son, Will of West Saanich Road and the three daughters, Miss Amelia Barker, who lives with her father and cares for him; Mrs. C. H. Hersey, Qu'Appelle Street and Mrs. Robert Brydon, Glenford Avenue.

Among the old friends who called was sweet-faced, active Mrs. Annie Clarke, 83, the mother-in-law of the old gentleman's son David. She talked of early days in Victoria—when she was married here more than 60 years ago.

The four generations of the Barker family above are, from left to right, David Barker, 65; W. J. Barker, 90; D. Leslie Barker, 48, son of David, and L. Gordon Barker, 14, the son of Leslie.

Letters to the Editor

A FINE SCOTSMAN

To the Editor:—Last Monday I attended the funeral of a grand old man, and incidentally, one of your oldest subscribers, Annandale Duncan Grieve, a resident of this district for nearly 70 years.

To captains, mates and marine engineers of the past half century all over the world he was a landmark and a friend, and to all ranks of the navy in the old days was known as "The Laird of Esquimalt." Sailors meeting in Hongkong, Boston, Fiji or New Zealand and talking of British Columbia and the Esquimalt drydock would invariably end up with "Did you meet old Duncan Grieve?" To those of us who were familiar with the greasy cobbles and grimy surroundings of Liverpool, Glasgow and Cardiff docks, the atmosphere of the old Esquimalt drydock was one of peace and beauty, heightened by the hospitable welcome offered by the well-known old Scotch carpenter, a welcome not easily forgotten.

Only those who have been shipwrecked thousands of miles from their home port and landed among total strangers can fully appreciate what it means to find a friend who shares his all, and such a friend was Duncan. His passing, when known to those who have experienced his delightful hospitality, will revive many pleasant memories, and many a grateful sailor will bow in silence for a fine old Scotsman and gentleman.

FORESTRY EVILS

To the Editor:—The letter of Col. W. J. H. Holmes in Wednesday's Times anent the junking of city war trophies, brings home afresh the problem of finding an exacting standard of moral consciousness.

The human standard of right and wrong varies in different nations, peoples and laws. This fact is often the cause of misunderstanding and wars between tribes and nations. But there are also different standards between individuals of the same people, brought on by self-interest.

The environment in which one has been brought up influences the level of the moral standard. For instance, graft and patronage is an evil abhorrence to some people; to others it is elegance of political achievement.

Some people plan to take their marriage presents of few days after the marriage back to where they were purchased and get cash for them. To others that would be the very depth of treachery and degradation of self respect.

In some countries a man is respected and honored who has many wives. With us a person is punished and jailed if he is found with more than one. Yet both are legal standards. At school we were taught that "honesty is the best policy." Yet later we were trained the reverse, and told that "business is business."

We complicate life so much by our twists and quirks. It is small wonder our municipal councillors in Victoria follow the lead of their moral environment in the matter of giving away community war trophies of which they are the guardians for the year, one other, more or less, will not make much difference to the jumble of inconsistencies with which we surround our turpitude.

THE FUTURE

To the Editor:—W. J. Tucker, D.Sc., Ph.D., British, after reviewing periods of booms and slumps for the past 60 years, said "1940 will be the year of the bubble (boom), and 1941 the year of the collapse." In 1941 Great Britain and U.S. will successfully establish a commonwealth of nations. It is the preamble to a totally new order of things.

Vancouver News-Herald, October 15-40, "13 American families hold $2,700,000,000 in securities. Ford family $624,975,000, Dupont $573,600,000, Rockefeller $396,583,000, etc. (Much of Dupont's huge pile made out of last war.)"

It is estimated U.S. unemployed, unionists and casual workers stand at 12,000,000, very many receiving a bare existence dole. A little reflection after studying the British, French, American and Russian revolutions indicates the American situation is about ripe for another possibly violent adjustment following the war boom, when it is remembered the majority of Americans look on themselves as shareholders in the U.S. abundance and not serfs on a dole.

CHARLES WALKDEN.

AS A VETERAN SEES IT

To the Editor:—When I went over in 1914 we marched to the station in civilian dress, no band to create enthusiasm and stir one's blood, but we were cheered and waved at and wished good luck, with the humorists requesting the spikes of the Kaiser's moustache, etc. I felt uncomfortable and sincerely wished the crowd would lay off, but the memory afterwards was pleasant and still is. There may put more competent foresters actually in the woods in charge of silvicultural operations (another term for good logging), gives more scope for initiative and reduce the red tape beloved of the bureaucrat, would be a good thing.

Considering the vast surplus of timber which then existed, forestry made reasonable progress during the first quarter century since the Royal Commission of 1910 provided the information for a start. In recent years there has been a marked increase in propaganda, but the rate of progress towards permanent forestry has not accelerated as it should in view of present forest conditions. The sole responsibility should no longer be left to a government bureau. It needs the help (and competition) of other forest owners with an interest in permanent production.

Perhaps the spiritual renaissance, which some observers expect to emerge from this war, may produce in individuals more enthusiasm for the common good, and make it possible to eliminate in forestry, and in other activities, the worst evils of political ambition and private greed, without causing the ruin of the human spirit, which is the terrible price of totalitarian government.

THINGS NOT TO JUNK

To the Editor:—The letter of Col. W. J. H. Holmes in Wednesday's Times anent the junking of city war trophies, brings home afresh the problem of finding an exacting standard of moral consciousness.

This, Too, May Be News

An investigator has come all the way from Ottawa to look over the federal civil servants' Esquimalt riding whose pay is only $60 a month and who actually have to live on $35 because of pay-check deductions.

Alan Chambers, M.P., has been asking questions in Parliament. The married men have been specially listed and Ottawa may try to pay them something nearer a living wage. Despite all the Bren gun ballyhoo, the only Bren guns military units here train with are on paper.

Big chain store organization is negotiating for construction of a California-type food market on Douglas Street just north of the Hudson's Bay.

Victoria's quota for War Savings certificates has been set at $124,000 a month for next year; Nanaimo's at $15,000, Duncan $1,500, Chemainus $3,000, Ladysmith $1,500, Youbou $1,000, Saanichton $500, Ganges, Salt Spring Island, $500. Canadian Broadcasting is working on plans for a new style of news broadcasting, starting January 1. Peter Sturberg and Dick Elson are going from B.C. to Toronto this week to spend a month working out the technique. Instruction books prepared in 1937 are being used by military units here. One unit has been using texts of 1935, and last week was doing sword drill—pre-1914 stuff. Military training in Canada has not yet caught up with this war. Worm found in the flesh of codfish on this coast has a life-cycle which starts with gulls and other seafowl. From the birds the parasite is carried by droppings along the shore to the cod, lives in its stomach, then bores through the flesh to the backbone; returns to its first host when the bird eats dead fish or picks up other bits to which parasite attaches itself after leaving fish.

In the six months from April 1 to September 30 last, the Federal Government collected in Victoria $1,210,701 customs and excise taxes, an increase over last year of $202,518. This does not include revenues collected at other ports of entry, such as Montreal and Vancouver, for goods ultimately coming here. Latest London papers arriving here are stirred up over latest pamphlet of H. G. Wells, which describes the British army as "yeasens led by Haw-Haws." General Viscount Gort as "our praying general," and Field-Marshal Ironside as "that bespangled triumph of incompetence." You can still write as you please in England.

Some who are disgruntled because the return reception was nowhere as enthusiastic as the send-off. What of it? Forget it. But let's make sure the situations are reversed this time. Your friends and mine are willing to risk their lives in the greatest and most glorious struggle in the history of mankind.

I look around in some sections and see the flags waving; how good an enlisted man must feel in that section—he is surrounded by friends. In other sections one can strain their eyes but not a flag can be seen, as little a show of friendship and good will as was shown in yesterday's parade.

Every heart in every breast, I know, was stirred, but why not a little outward show. Is it because we feel our neighbors, good friends and allies across the line overdo it? Believe me, it is better by far to overdo it than underdo it, if that were possible, but it cannot be overdone—we are at war.

I would like to call on every citizen and every organization to do for me what I would like to do, and lead in, if I were not a phlegmatic, undemonstrative Englishman who is proud of England and her present gallant struggle, but ashamed of my aforementioned characteristics, and prouder still of the country I now live in if only they would cure my countrymen in such times as these, by doing, and making us do, everything in our power to encourage the enthusiasm so lacking at the beginning of the war, though now felt but not outwardly shown.

To prevent any misunderstanding regarding the things I don't do but could, I would like to mention that I tried to join up when the war started, but was refused because of my 40 per cent disability pension as the result of the last. However, I'm hoping my turn will come; in the meantime I intend to overcome my peacetime asset—now my wartime failing, and hope that thousands of others will wave their flags and wear their hearts on their sleeves for a change. We are at war.

PROPHCY IN REVELATION

To the Editor:—It is interesting to read Revelation, 9:9 in view of it being said that there is nothing in Revelation for 1940. This verse gives a very good description of an aeroplane. As seen in a vision the noise of the propeller would seem to come from the wing, "as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle," and when we read verse 10, where it says "there were stings in their tails," it is more interesting still, having heard the same expression used recently in describing bombers.

Another good description of an aeroplane is in Ezekiel 1:23 verse 16, telling of wheels looking like "a wheel in the middle of a wheel." A propeller looks like this when spinning. Verse 19 and 20 read: "When the living creature—they would look like living creatures—were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up for the spirit (or power) of the living creature was the wheels." Verse 24, "When they stood they let down their wings," some planes fold their wings, and the "voice from the firmament when they stood and had let down their wings," verse 25, could be the propeller still running. It is wonderful to think that this was written in 595 B.C.

Jesus, in Revelation 1:19 said, "Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter."

When told that Revelation was written for that time only, having nothing to do with the future, it is strange to realize that the prophecy of the fall of Babylon in Revelation 18:10 was given in A.D. 96, and literal Babylon fell in B.C. 516.

MINORITY CONTROL AT CITY HALL

To the Editor:—Seems only yesterday we were talking civic elections, and again where we are not quite one month away from when the electorate will be called upon to make a choice from among the candidates offering. Elections are as necessary during wartime as in peace, if not more so, in order to maintain a free democracy. It is by and through the exercising of our franchise this can be accomplished. Otherwise, the minority govern, which is the beginning of a democracy's downfall. All our political privileges have been dearly bought, and again blood is being spilled and countless numbers of the very flower of our youth sacrificed that liberty and equal franchise may continue to be enjoyed by all.

It would, therefore, seem the very least the electorate can do is go to the polls, take advantage of our God-given privileges by using the power a free democracy has provided.

Some one says what does my vote mean? Yes, what would it mean indeed to be deprived of it. These questions are easily answered in any one broadcast of today's war news. Too long Victoria has been sleeping with regard to registering a majority vote. Thus for some time we have been suffering a minority control at the City Hall. Such small contributions demanded of us are little enough in order to help maintain the British way of life.

Committee Probes Coast Smelter Plan

Leaders in British Columbia's base metal industry told the mines committee of the Legislature this morning that the stumbling block to a smelter on the coast could be summed up briefly—lack of a steady supply of ore over a long enough period to amortize the cost.

"Personally I cannot see where the tonnage is coming from to supply a smelter on the coast. Britannia is definitely over the hump as far as its present operation is concerned," said C. P. Browning, head of Britannia Mining & Smelting Co. on Howe Sound.

A. S. Bailey, vice-president and general manager of Granby Consolidated, said his company had already laid the groundwork for a smelter at Allenby, and gave the implication if a smelter was to be anywhere it should be there.

James Buchanan of Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, said his firm would not be interested in a coast copper smelter unless the copper price was at least 15 cents a pound, much higher than it was now.

BRITANNIA RESERVE LOW
Mr. Browning summed up for the committee the ore that might be available to a coast smelter from the present operating properties that might be tributary to it in the final analysis.

He said Britannia, since it started operating in 1904 had been a good mine, but was now down to treating ore with less than 1 per cent copper, which required the greatest economies in operation.

He said its contracts for shipping to Tacoma smelter took into account the fact that the parent Howe Sound Company shipped additional tonnage from other subsidiaries.

Any additional costs that might be incurred by shipping to a B.C. smelter would make the whole operation doubtful, he said.

Mr. Browning noted that under present war conditions the copper shipments from Britannia to Tacoma were of vital concern in creating foreign exchange for Canada. They were equivalent, he said, to a gold mine shipping 125,000 ounces annually. It played its part in preserving the Empire's copper supply because Tacoma supplied more copper to the Empire than it received from Britannia.

GRANBY PREPARING
Mr. Bailey said the Granby people had spent $50,000 in the last two years on preparations for a smelter at Allenby, including clearing of a site, setting up ore storage bins, making surveys of possible fume damage, and other factors.

He was asked whether it was intended to complete the project and replied that market conditions and the necessary expense of $1,000,000 for construction were factors still needing consideration.

C. M. Campbell, Vancouver mining engineer, drew attention to the fact Granby made $166 per $5 par value share last year. Assertions of the mining experts led committee members into discussion of the possibilities of government subsidies for a smelter.

"We've got to get a balanced idea about the preservation of our life," said Manfred McGee, Liberal, Mackenzie, leading proponent of the smelter plan.

"We've got to meet competition of the world—competition of totalitarian states where everything is under government control. If not government control we need at least governmental direction in the interests of our national economy."

"How can we compete with these states through our private capitalist system?" asked G. M. Murray, Liberal, Lillooet.

"You wouldn't like to work for the wages they pay in those states, would you?" asked R. W. Bruhn, Conservative, Salmon Arm.

Mr. Campbell, long an advocate of a coast smelter, maintained that if nothing were done now B.C.'s mining industry faced a desperate position.

MUST SAVE INDUSTRY
He said the government could subsidize the mining industry, just as it subsidized farmers and other lines of endeavor, by assisting with smelter construction.

The smelter could start on copper and gold ores and study the possibilities of smelting iron ores which it might swing into when other reserves were depleted.

He said the province was losing $5,000,000 annually in treatment costs for ores going south of the line.

He urged the government foster every line of the metal trade, arrange to get ores from other countries if necessary, and to mine, refine and fabricate everything from ore to watch-spring.

"Like the Italians we are retreating now as fast as we can," he said. "If we want to maintain our present population, let alone increase it, we must do something at once."

West Swinging to War Volume—Neal

"With the war traffic gradually swinging into volume the tremendous latent capacity of western Canada will be felt," said W. M. Neal, vice president, Canadian Pacific western lines, in town today from Winnipeg.

"As the war progresses," he said, "it is obvious that the Dominion will play a much greater part than it did in the last war and this will be brought about through the full utilization of our natural resources and that where the west comes in." He predicted a steadily developing movement of raw and semi-processed products from the west.

Canada, the railway executive said, was getting into its stride, with every day and hour being directed to the successful prosecution of the war.

The east, with its greater industrialization, was driving at top speed, but the west would from now on contribute to a very substantial extent in the production of essential war materials.

All the resources of the Canadian Pacific have been placed at the disposal of the country and Empire, as announced by Sir Edward Beatty at the beginning of the war, and as a result no major developments are contemplated by the company at the present time.

"All our efforts are being devoted to the nation's war effort," said Mr. Neal.

WINTER TOURISTS
Prospects for the winter tourist movement to the Pacific coast this year are excellent, says Mr. Neal.

"Speaking for Winnipeg and the prairies, I know that the travel volume to the coast this winter will be considerable," he said. "Victoria has been getting a lot of valuable advertising by word-of-mouth, and that is the best kind of advertising you can get."

"A permanent travel relationship is being developed between Vancouver Island and the interior of Canada," Mr. Neal also spoke of the attractions of the Gulf Islands, near here, to western Canadians. "These islands in the gulf have their own peculiar charm," he said. "It is surprising how many people are building homes there to spend their retirement years."

GRAIN SITUATION
Questioned about the grain situation, Mr. Neal said the federal government, after giving the problem a great amount of study, would have a definite policy to announce in the near future. There had been an increase in country elevator storage of some 40 per cent, he said, adding that the farmers had displayed great ingenuity in providing storage bins on their farms. Already plans were under way to supplement the existing large storage space, Mr. Neal said.

The grain carryover at the crop year, July 31, 1941, was figured at 500,000,000 bushels. The crop, which had been made safe, constituted a most valuable asset to the Empire.

The present problem was that of financing the farmer while holding his grain, said Mr. Neal, and that was being taken care of by the government.

Mr. Neal said he expected to remain in Victoria a week. He is accompanied by his daughter, Betty, and her friend, Mary Austin.

Holt's 'Aunt Edith'
Makes Herself Known

William Holt's "Aunt Edith" is Mrs. Herbert Jackson of 2312 Shelbourne Street.

The Yorkshireman who is occasionally featured on the "Britain Speaks" program from London spoke the other evening of his "Aunt Edith," who lived in Victoria.

On Saturday the Times asked in its news columns, "who is Aunt Edith?"

This morning Mrs. Jackson telephoned to say "I'm William Holt's Aunt Edith."

She and Mr. Holt's mother, Mrs. Arthur Holt of Los Angeles are sisters. For some years Mrs. Holt lived on Niagara Street. Her daughter, Anita, now married in Los Angeles, was well known on the local concert platform as a violinist.

"William was always a great one to travel," his aunt said. "But he stayed in Victoria awhile—he loved it here, and once he worked at Bamerton. He speaks seven languages and he has written several books on his travels. We always listen to him and we're really very proud of him."

It was William Holt who devoted 15 minutes a few weeks ago to telling the British Empire and the United States how he visited Mrs. Dennis Harris, daughter of Sir James Douglas. On this program he described the beauties of Victoria and talked of the Olympic Mountains and the Sooke Hills.

For the second year in succession Dr. W. R. Gunn, B.C. livestock commissioner, has been appointed by the American Veterinary Medical Association to be its resident provincial secretary for this province.

Alchemists Looked For Secret of Lasting Life

Through all the ages people have found that death comes to each human being. A man may die while still young, or he may live to a ripe old age. In any case death comes sooner or later.

There has been worry about that problem for a long time. Seven hundred years ago, certain men in Europe were looking for a way to end death. They were searching for what they called "the philosopher's stone."

An alchemist at work

It was supposed that a single touch of the stone would give a person everlasting life on earth.

Another plan was to use the philosopher's stone to turn "base metals" into gold. It was hoped to change iron or lead into bright yellow metal for which so many persons have shown greed.

Princes, kings and nobles supplied money to those who labored to bring about such magic. They hoped to learn a secret which would bring them far more money than they had spent.

The name of "alchemist" was given to a man who tried to make a philosopher's stone. There were scores of them in Europe during the Middle Ages. They worked in secret places. They did not want to let the public know what they discovered. They feared that they might be put to death for dealing with "black magic."

Herbs were boiled, and the juice was mixed with acids. Tests were made with quicksilver and sulphur.

More than one alchemist claimed that he had made the magic stone, but no claim was proved. Instead of obtaining great wealth, the alchemists used up much money.

The money was not entirely lost, however. The work of the alchemists led to a greater knowledge of herbs and chemicals. It did much to bring about the science of chemistry.

If a way had been found to turn iron into gold, quickly and cheaply, what would have happened to the price of gold? Gold would have become cheap, perhaps as cheap as iron.

If gold became as common as iron, people would have little use for it as money. The chief reason for its value today is the fact that it is rather "scarce."

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Should a girl marry a man she loves, even if he cannot give her as good a home as she already has? DOUBTFUL DOTTY.

Answer: Depends upon whether she loves the man or her comfort most. If she puts sentiment above luxury she is not so much concerned about the state of his purse as the state of his heart. She doesn't ask how much money he can give her, but how much love.

She would rather live on bread and cheese and kisses with him than be fed on terrapin and champagne by another, and a two-by-four apartment with him will look better than a palace without him.

Of course, no matter how much a girl is in love with a man, she should stop and consider if he can make a decent living for a family; but that is only a precautionary measure to preserve their love and secure their happiness, because love flies out of the window if the bill collector is perpetually knocking on the door, and because there is no peace and contentment in a home unless there is a fire on the hearth and food in the cupboard.

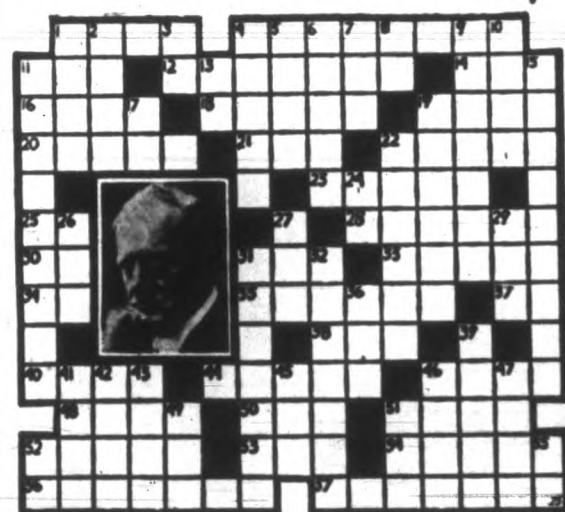

Beyond asking that the man furnish her with the modest competence, a girl should not consider money in choosing a husband. Nor should she ask that her young husband support her in the style to which she has been accustomed.

It has probably taken her father 30 years to make enough money to give his family a fine house and luxuries, and no boy starting out in business has that earning capacity.

If a girl loves a man as she should to marry him, she ought to be willing to begin at the bottom with him, to work and save with him and help him build his fortune. The sacrifices they make for each other will bind them together.

France Not Dead, Declares Godbout

QUEBEC (CP)—For French-Canadians and Acadians, France is not dead, Premier Adélard Godbout of Quebec said over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in the "Let's Face the Facts" series of talks.

Through the facilities of the British Broadcasting Corporation and United States radio chains, his words, uttered in both French and English last night, reached an international audience which included as he said "France our unhappy, yet beloved mother."

The war was shaking the world to its depths and French-Canadians and Acadians were directly interested in the triumph of order over chaos, of justice over injustice, of honor over knavery and of liberty over enslavement.

SACRIFICES

"We have raised ourselves up and stand shoulder to shoulder for the defence of that Canada which has been founded, dedicated, settled and developed by our fathers," said Mr. Godbout, "and for which throughout over three centuries we have gladly made tremendous sacrifices."

"This Canada now in labor, it is we who have rendered her fruitful, we who lighted up in her the spark of civilization. Confident in our strength, and by that much the better resolved we lift our cry: 'O Sacred Fatherland of Ours, Thou Shalt Not Pass Into the Hands of the Barbarian.'"

Although the seat of war was thousands of miles away, the enemy would soon invade Canada if he could pierce the overseas rampart. The front line was where the enemy was striking his initial blows.

SPONTANEOUS ARDOR

"It was with spontaneous ardor that we sprang to the help of France," he said. "Now, thrust back upon the bastion of Britain, where the fight has reached its hottest, we are sustaining the shock, we are unfolding our wings, we are harassing the enemy pending the moment sure to come when we will drive out of England, out of France and into the farthest ends of Germany those whose villainy is beyond the power of any word in any tongue to name."

To France, French-Canadians would say: "Mother, thou art not dead. You live in our blood and in our minds. And you live in the minds of those who understand you. We all know that the hordes of Hitler and Mussolini have not been able to tear out your soul and that you but await your victory, the victory of the British nations and their Allies, to again take your place amongst the nations who are bearers of light."

INSPIRED

To Great Britain they would say: "Thy valor moves us to the core. Your serenity in combat, under fire, is worthy of thee... because thy King is our King, and thy cause of liberty our cause also; because the defence of Christian civilization henceforth rests upon thee, until the day when our united blows have laid low the genius of evil and given back to peoples the joy of breathing freely again, we hold out to thee the hand of brotherhood that you mayest know more surely, if that were possible, that thou standest not alone to bear the destiny of the world."

Canada was the prime motive of the part French-Canadians were taking in the struggle.

Greeks Place Wreath at Cenotaph

Fallen heroes are honored.

In a simple but impressive ceremony at the Cenotaph yesterday afternoon, sailors of the Greek merchant marine joined with members of the Hellenic Society here in paying tribute to the victorious armies of Greece.

It was the culmination of a joyous celebration by local Greeks over the capture of Koriza and complete rout of the Italians on the Albanian frontier.

Thousands of Victorians crowded into the Causeway and Parliament Square, lined the route from the City Hall to cheer the little band of Greek patriots as they marched through the city streets to place a massive wreath of roses and chrysanthemums at the Cenotaph's base.

Many Canadian soldiers and sailors were among the crowd. Headed by the Victoria Boys' Band, playing lively marches, the well-drilled merchant seamen, shoulders squared, heads erect, marched along the parade route with military precision, getting a warm hand from the crowds.

The only uniforms in evidence were those worn by the ship's officers; the men, neat and smart, wearing ordinary suits, the majority of them hatless.

Conspicuous among the parade were Captains Panagis Sarlos, D. Pappas and J. Somonas, masters of Greek vessels lying in the harbor. Other skippers came from ships at Union Bay.

Dr. A. Apostol, president of the Hellenic War Relief Society, attended the ceremony; also S. Moraitis, publicity director.

The Victoria Greek colony in a body followed the ships' crews on foot, their families riding in flag-draped cars.

The British red ensign and Greek flags were carried at the head of the parade.

Large placards on the body of the procession read: "We, the Elias Antipas reads address.

Greeks, by the side of Britain, will fight barbarism to the bitter end as our glorious history commands." Others urged: "Down With Fascism" and "Down With Nazism."

The beautiful wreath, which measured 3½ feet in diameter, bore the inscription "Andron Ephiphanon Pasa ge Taphos" (For every man conspicuous every land a tomb).

The band played the British and Greek national anthems, the Greeks singing their hymn of praise.

THE ADDRESS

The address was delivered in Greek by Elias Antipas. Translated by Georgios Isichios, it read:

"To you British soldiers who were absent at the roll call after the battle."

"Soldiers who have died fighting for the right and freedom of all nations."

"Soldiers of the Empire, who found the most glorious of all deaths where your duty commanded you."

"Today Great Britain, together with our country Greece, is fighting for that same cause."

"We Greek seamen passing by, deemed it our duty, together with our countrymen of Victoria, to come and kneel in body and thought in front of your symbolic tomb."

"What if in this tomb none of your ashes are found buried? Somewhere else your body is resting. 'For every man conspicuous every land a tomb.'"

"You fell continuing that ancient and modern Greek saying: 'I Tan I Epi Tas' (Return victorious or never)."

"Your bodies though they have fallen on the shield, your shadow and your soul from the Pantheon of the Immortal is hovering somewhere near."

"We Greeks have come to respectfully pay tribute to your immortal shadows. And to tell you that in our country, Greece, a new spirit of Thermopylae is living, and that England and Greece are fighting for a new victory of Salamina and Marathona."

"British soldiers who have found the most glorious of all deaths, we lay a wreath at your grave, and at the same time another wreath, made from the thoughts of all of us, is floating in the valleys, in the plains, in the mountains, in the rivers, and in the seas, where glorious dead are resting. May the ground or water that is covering you be light, and may your memory live forever. Your blood has not run in vain."

At the conclusion of the ceremony the Greeks circled the monument, saluted and wended their way back to the City Hall, where raising "Zeto's" (hurrahs) were given prior to dispersal.

first, and comb out the red tape afterwards.

It is impossible to read the last paragraph of the bulletin without thinking that the author had in mind a picture of Hitler and his backers on a day which sooner or later will come. Inevitably a certain grim humor creeps into the sentence. It reads: "All grants will be settled as advance payments in anticipation of a final settlement after the war."

Rowell Conference

Officials Named

OTTAWA (CP)—D. Alex Skelton, chief of the research department of the Bank of Canada, has been appointed secretary of the Dominion-Provincial conference called for January 14 to consider implementation of recommendations made by the Rowell-Sirois commission.

Paul Fontaine of the justice department will be assistant secretary. Mr. Skelton served as secretary of the Rowell-Sirois commission.

The conference is expected to be completed before the House reassembles in January.

Important Ingredient

Blood contains a chemical clotting agent known as thrombin, which causes the blood to clot when exposed to air. Without it, human beings might bleed to death from the slightest scratches.

A way of removing chewing gum from clothing: Rub the spot with ice until the gum can be rolled into a ball and scraped off.

Active Against Vivisection

At the monthly board meeting of the Canadian Anti-vivisection Society, the secretary reported protesting against a biased editorial on vivisection in a Kingston paper. Efforts to inoculate and vaccinate "child visitors" were also discussed, and protests were read against pasteurization of milk and objectionable films.

Reports were given on experiments on animals in Canada and the United States, in connection with diabetes and infantile paralysis.

The protection of troops from the dangers of inoculation and vaccination were discussed and action taken.

Special contributions for animal war work in Britain will be forwarded shortly.

There will be no board meeting in December. Miss N. K. Wyles was in the chair.

NAZIS HAVE PLAY BANNED IN EIRE

DUBLIN (CP)—Guy de Maupassant's classic story of the Franco-Prussian War, "Boule de Suif" (Ball of Suet), has been banned by authorities of neutral Eire from the Gate Theatre after a three-night run in the capital's brilliantly lighted theatre district. Objections to the play had been made on behalf of the legations of Germany and the Vichy government.

It had first been announced that reason for the ban was "moral grounds." But later it was disclosed the play, titled "Roly-poly," had been the subject of diplomatic action.

Lennox Robinson, Irish playwright, adapted the play, which was laid in the time of the Franco-Prussian War. It tells how an actress, one of a coachload of refugees from Paris, is persuaded by her fellow-passengers to sacrifice her honor—the price demanded by a German officer—for allowing the party to pass through a German-occupied village.

The famous Irish actor, Michael MacLiammoir, produced the play in association with Hilton Edwards.

"Shakespeare's England" will be the subject of a lecture by Prof. Ira Dilworth under the auspices of the University Extension Association this evening at 8.15, in the Central Junior High School.

Health Insurance Coming?

Pattullo Policies Get Liberal Backing

Difficulties incident to the operation of health insurance in British Columbia are being rapidly overcome, Hon. G. M. Weir, Provincial Secretary, announced at the meeting of the B.C. Liberal Association executive.

The minister did not give details but the association went on record as fully in accord with putting health insurance into effect.

This was one of 11 resolutions passed by the executive Saturday afternoon including complete endorsement of the Pattullo government and its present policies.

Personal tribute was paid to the Premier by M. P. McCaffery of Prince Rupert, who mentioned a 40-year association with Mr. Pattullo, in supporting a vote of confidence in his administration.

Resolutions were passed fully endorsing Hon. John Hart's 1941-1942 budget, which has been under attack, supporting Premier Pattullo's attitude on the Rowell-Sirois report, endorsing the new $250,000 educational grant to municipalities, and backing the government's decision not to set up a highway commission.

WILL CO-OPERATE

In connection with the motion on the Rowell report the Premier said the government intended to co-operate in every way with the federal authority and the other provinces in the war effort.

Another resolution urged as a war measure that the federal government co-operate with the province in the establishment of a metal refining industry on the coast. Dougald MacPherson, former chairman of the House mining committee, made this motion.

BETTER PENSIONS

The Liberals came out strongly for better old age pensions, proposing the age limit be reduced from 70 to 65 years and the monthly pension be increased from $20 to $30.

Payment of transportation costs to men on active service when on regular or special leave was advocated.

In the federal field the executive voted complete confidence in the administration of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Senator J. W. de B. Farris, K.C., in moving the resolution said that Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister King were the three outstanding statesmen leading the democracies of the world today.

The executive concluded at a private dinner and entertainment in the Empress Hotel.
